TECH STUDENT SERIOUSLY HURT IN RIOTING

One Technology freshman received serious spinal injuries during the fracas on the campus that preceded the wild rioting through Boston and Cambridge; it was reported today by Dr. George W. Morse, the institute's medical attache. The student is L. S. Thorsen of Ellsworth, Me. He is at Charlesgate Hospital. Classmates found him unconscious on the outdoor running track just after the march to Boston began.

Wise Desert Pack Rat 'd Interest Coolidge A...ormy Sea, Shipmates Captain Dollar Is Calm

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1926, by the Star Company.)

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE has been invited to California, ought to accept, and should visit this Mojave Desert. On a hillside, below a big rock, he would see a complicated, ingenious bulwark of small branches, each one carrying thorns, protecting the hole of the desert pack rat.

IT'S A THOROUGHLY American rat, no relation to the black and brown rats of Europe. It fears rattlesnakes, gopher snakes and ground owls. It has never seen one—otherwise would not be alive.

BUT IT KNOWS they are and might come at any time, sliding down the hole bringing death.

So the desert rat prepares as does his little nest with thorns and cactus. If he were President of the United States, he would Continued on Page 12, Column 5

ROPER LAUDS HARVARD AS TIGERS WORK OUT

By BILL GRIMES

"I have always had a great deal of respect for Harvard football elevens and even last year, when we ran up a total of 36 points on the Crimson, I felt that Harvard had a great team, but that they were played out of position" said Head Coach Bill Roper of Princeton, when asked what it thought of the outcome of the Crimson-Tiger battle in the Stadium tomorrow.

"From what I have heard and read in the papers, Arnold Horween has performed wonders with his Harvard charges." And by the way, your fellows have been proclaiming me as a great exponent of psychology, how tell me, how you classify Arnold Horween, in the case of Al Miller?" inquired the Tiger mentor. "Don't mistake me when I inquire about Miller. I think that he played a wonderful game of football last

COAST GUARD RUM TIP CAME FROM A WOMAN

Enter the woman in the coast guard rum scandal.

A woman, frantic over the death of her husband and incensed over the callousness of the bootleggers, who, she believes, caused his death, started the entire probe that resulted in the exposure of collusion between local coast guardsmen and Canadian rum runners, a scandal that has shaken the coast guard service to its very foundations.

While four petty officers and 21 seamen of the coast guard are now under arrest awaiting a special court-martial on the charges of conspiring with rum-runners and bootleggers to smuggle rum into the United States, the coast guardsmen involved in the charges are seeking "the leak" that led to their exposure.

Seamen who have admitted their own guilt blamed the greedy "higher-ups" who sought more than a mere one-dollar fee for protection to the rum-runners.

The "higher-ups" are combing the list of deserters and discharged Coast Guardsmen, who, disgruntled might have turned "stool pigeon."

WOMAN GAVE TIP.

But it was a woman, not any of these other agents, who precipitated the downfall of the local men.

ONE TECH MAN JAILED; FELONY CHARGES LOOM

One Technology student was sentenced to serve five days in the House of Correction, while prosecution on serious State Prison charges was promised to four others today, as a result of the wild riot through Boston and Cambridge streets staged by 600 Tech men who injured men and women, wrecked automobiles and did damage of thousands of dollars to other property.

"These Tech men cannot run roughshod over Boston citizens and their property," declared Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley

He instructed the arresting police to ask warrants charging inciting to riot, unlawful assembly and wilful destruction of property, felonies punishable by terms up to five years and large fines as well.

Sentencing Sears L. Hallett of Claflin road, Brookline, one of the students, to five days in jail, Judge Arthur P. Stone of East Cambridge district court said:

"You might get away with this near-rioting in some country college but you cannot get away with it here."

Appealing the sentence, Hallett was held in $200 for trial in Superior Court. He had pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace; but he changed front at the House of Correction sentence.

"What have you got to say for yourself?" Judge Stone asked him when he was first arraigned.

"Well, nothing," replied Hallett. "I was just with the Tech boys."

"Well, you thought you could start a near-riot, didn't you?" said the court. "Those days are gone now when Harvard and the Massachu

MAINE DEER HUNTER SLAIN BY COMPANION

Enfield, Me., Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Mistaken for a deer by his companion, John Porter of Lowell, Walter Curtis of this town lies dead at his home here with a high powered bullet wound in his stomach which caused death about three-quarters of an hour after the shot had been fired while the two were hunting near Nyonlous Lake.

Curtis and Porter were cutting sleepers under contract with Charles D. Whittier of Bangor and had gone into the woods to hunt for awhile. Separating, Curtis started a deer and circled around to head it off, unknowingly going in the direction of Porter who, seeing something moving in a clump of bushes, fired, his target proving to be his companion.

Curtis was married and leaves a wife and one child. He was about thirty-five years of age.

SLAIN SINGER'S MATE TELLS OF FATAL NIGHT

Court House, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 5.—James Mills, the most colorless and yet most puzzling of figures in the Hall-Mills case, took the stand at the trial today and in a calm, almost bored voice, told of the love tragedy in his home and of events leading up to the double murder of his wife and the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall.

In one of the most dramatic moments of the trial to date Mills told of his movements on the night of the murder and of the visit paid to his home the next day by the slain rector's wife, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, one of the three defendants.

He caused a stir in the crowded courtroom when he said Mrs. Hall's first words to him were:

"I know they're dead or they'd be home!"

Mrs. Hall, sitting very still, looked at the witness without a change of expression as these words came from his lips.

Mills Is Unmoved on Stand

The lean-faced former sexton plainly had prepared with care for his day in court. His thin hair was plastered down carefully and he wore a gray suit, low starched collar and red necktie with yellow figures.

No emotion showed in his face as he identified a photograph of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, his wife, and said at the time she was killed "she was about thirty-three or thirty-four, as near as I know."

Mills said he is forty-nine years old.

He told of his wife singing in the choir and calmly pointed out in a photograph the seat she occupied. His composure was in striking contrast of that of his daughter, Charlotte, who broke down when she took the stand the first day of the trial.

Mills was questioned at length concerning the persons who had keys to Dr. Hall's church, indicating the prosecution is paving the way to show that the rector and Mrs. Mills were spied upon by other members of the congregation.

Witness Mills was questioned as follows:

Q.—Where do you live? A.—New Brunswick.

Q.—How long have you been in New Brunswick? A.—All my life.

Q.—How old are you? A.—Forty-eight years.

Q.—Is Eleanor Mills, who was murdered September 14, 1926, your wife? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Is that a photograph of her? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—How old was she when that was taken? A.—I would judge about thirty-three or thirty-four.

Q.—How old was she when she died? A.—As near as I know about thirty-five.

Q.—When were you married to her? A.—1905.

Q.—Any children? A.—Charlotte and Daniel.

Q.—Were they living with you at the time of the murder? A.—Yes, sir.

APPROVE NEW RESPITE FOR CARBARN SLAYERS

Governor Fuller's further respite until January 3 for John J. Devereaux, John J. McLaughlin and Edward J. Heinlein, sentenced to death in the Waltham carbarn murder was approved today by the Governor's Council.

The council meeting was a special session, called on the eve of Governor Fuller's departure for Europe.

Because the Supreme Court has not handed down a decision on appeal in the carbarn case and Governor Fuller will be out of the State for nearly two months, he granted the further respite until 1927.

Attorney-General Jay R. Benton met with the council in an advisory capacity.

Q.—What sort of house did you have? A.—Four rooms, living room, two bedrooms and kitchen.

Q.—When did your wife become connected with the Church of St. John's? A.—Before I was married to her.

Q.—Di she sing in thec hoir? A. Yes, sir.

Q.—Do you recognize this picture as the interior of the church? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Were you sexton of that church? A.—Yes, sir, two years.

Q.—Will you mark with a pencil where your wife sat in the choir. (Mills marked the extreme end of the choir seats.)

Q.—You were sexton of the church. What did you do? A.—Looked after the church. I didn't do any cleaning inside the church. There were two women to do that.

Q.—Who had keys to admit them to the church? A.—Dr. Hall, Mrs. Minna Clark, my wife and I had keys.

Q.—Could you get into the study? A.—The study was never locked.

Q.—What were your hours for being in church in daytime? A.—Early part of the morning.

Rummaged in Books

Q.—How often did you go there? A.—Often in the morning.

Q.—Ever in the afternoon? A.—On Saturday.

Q.—Who looked after the communion vessels? A.—My wife sometimes.

Q.—What did Mrs. Minna Clark do besides looking after Sunday school equipment and the priestly robes? A.—Nothing.

Q.—Did you ever see Mrs. Clark rummaging in the books in the study? A.—No sir.

Q.—When you got in and found her in the church, you had no way of knowing how long she had been there? A.—No.

Q.—Would you leave her her there when you went out? A.—Yes.

Simpson had the map of the church fastened to the wall next to the jury as he pursued his questioning.

Q.—Theee doors to the study, were they ever locked? A.—No.

Q.—Your duties were general sexton. What other employment, what was your top pay? A.—As school janitor, altogether I earned $23 to $28 a week. About $25 average.

Q.—Did you go to the church the morning of Sepi. 15, 1922? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you see anything on the pastor's desk? A.—Yes, a newspaper clipping.

Saw Divorce Clipping

Q.—Is this a photo copy of that clipping, can you tell? A.—I can tell it is.

The headline on one read: "Attack is begun against Episcopal canon on divorce."

Simpson said it was from the World of Sept. 14, 1922.

Q.—Did you see your wife Thursday, September 14, 1922? A.—Yes, when I got home from work at 6:15 p. m. After supper I started working on a window box on the back stoop.

Q.—Was anyone else there? A.—I saw Mrs. Kelly in the yard.

Q.—What time did your wife leave? A.—Half past seven.

Q.—That was the last time you saw her? A.—Yes.

Q.—After your wife went out, then what happened? A.—I finished the window box, worked at it till about 10:15. Then I went in the house and my son and daughter came in.

Q.—What did you do? A.—Stayed up till 11 waiting for my wife.

Q.—Then what? A.—I went and got a glass of soda water and went to church. I got there at 11:05.

Q.—Did you light up the church? A.—I did.

Q.—Then what? A.—I went home and went to bed. Went to sleep. At 3:30 I woke and the light was still ing the kitchen. I got up and asked my daughter if my wife was in.

Q.—Then what?? A.—I went to church and lighted the lights again. I looked in all the pews to see if my wife was there. I thought she might have been in the church and fainted. She had fainting spells.

Q.—Then what? A.—I went home.

Q.—Then what? A.—I went to bed. Got up in the morning and got theo hildren's breakfast.

Q.—Did you see Mrs. Hall that day? A.—First time between 2:30 and 3 at the study at church.

Q.—What did she say? A.—"Did you have any sickness. Mr. Hall did noa come home all night." I said neither did my wife. Then it popped into my mind suddenly and I said: "Maybe they've eloped." She said: "I know they've dead or they would have come home."

SAID "THEY'RE DEAD!"

Q.—Did you testify before the first Grand Jury that Mrs. Hall said to you, when you said "They've eloped." "They're both dead. They were together and they've both met the same fate." No.

Q.—Did you say anything to her when she said "They're dead or they would have come home?" A.—No.

Q.—You're sure when she said "they're dead" you didn't ask her why she said so. A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you tell the first Grand Jury: "I said, 'Do you think it is an elopement?' and she said 'No, it must be foul play or they'd be home?'"

Objection was entered by McCarter and this question was withdrawn.

Q.—When did you next see Mrs. Hall? A.—She came to my home at 12 o'clock noon.

Q.—Did she refer to the fact early that morning she had telephoned police headquarters and asked if there had been casualties? A.—Yes, she'd 10.

Q.—Did she ask anything else? A. She asked if I had heard anything. I told her "No."

Q.—Did you see her again? A.—yes at 5 p. m. at my home. She said, Did I hear anything about my wife coming home?

Q.—Did you see her again? A.—Yes, about 8:30 at her home. I went there from the church. She was sitting in a wicker rocker on the front porch. I said, 'Mrs. Hall, I don't know what to make of this.' She said, 'I don't know. I'm looking at a blank wall before me. They must be dead, or they'd come home.'

DIDN'T SEE WIFE'S BODY

Q.—Did you ask why she spoke again of death? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever see your wife's body? A.—No; it was buried without my seeing her.

Q.—Did you know she had been murdered without an autopsy? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you know her throat was cut? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—What day were the funeral services? A.—Tuesday.

Q.—At the last autopsy you identified your wife's body? A.—Yes, when Dr. Otto Schuls performed the autopsy October 29, 1926.

The first witness today was Arthur Vanderyor, a photographer who made the official pictures of scenes connected with the murder.

Prosecutor Simpson first handed hi ma greatly enlarged picture of the Phillips Farm, where the bodies were found. He identified various places including the famous crab apple tree. In regard to the apple tree picture Simpson asked:

Q.—Is it a true picture of the

SNOW AND LIGHTNING HIT BAY STATE, TWO INJURED

BIG ROUND-UP OF U. S. SEA GUARDS IN RUM CASE

BOSTON TERMINAL FOR AIR LINE TO EUROPE

TEMPERATURE DROPS TO NEW FALL RECORD

All kinds of weather—snow, rain, lightning and sunny skies—kept folk guessing in Boston and other Massachusetts localities today, while in the Hub the mercury descended to 34, a new low mark for this Fall season.

Snow fell at various places in and around Boston between 6 and 7 o'clock, giving early commuters a brief warning of what is to come.

Lightning death minor injuries to two women, fired a barn and damaged three houses in Falmouth on Cape Cod, the bolt hitting a barn in the rear of the junior high school and sliding along electric wires into the houses. Mrs. A. H. Peterson was knocked down and bruised, and Mrs. Stephen Robbins suffered from shock.

Rain and then sunny skies over the Hub followed the brief snowfall which was of the "spitting" variety. Several times the sky became overcast with leaden and ominous clouds, and the air was of the damp, chilly kind. On several Boston street corners a wintry wind drove pedestrians to burying their chins under coat collars.

Fair weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow, with lower temperatures accompanying. Northern New England today shivered in temperatures ranging from 20 at Concord, N. H., to 14 at Greenville, Me.

MOST FEASIBLE PORT, WARNER DECLARES

When air service is established between America and Europe, Boston may become the terminal, it was declared today by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Edward P. Warner, in charge of navy aviation, in an interview with the Boston Evening American.

The assistant secretary, a Technology professor on leave of absence while in service of the nation, is in Boston to talk on aviation tonight at M. I. T.

"Boston is nearer Europe," he said, "than any other feasible city, and it offers, therefore, the most important facility for cross-Atlantic air travel.

"Lighter-than-air ships will probably be the first to be utilized in transatlantic air travel. I cannot see yet a transatlantic service with heavier-than-air planes.

"It is true that there has been crossing by heavier-than-air machines, stripped down to the last notch in order to allow the carrying of sufficient fuel.

"Passenger airplanes could not do this. The lighter-than-air ships, however, have been able to make crossings without this handicap."

LOW FLIER BANNED BY GOODWIN

Based on complaints filed by Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson and a number of others, Registrar Frank A. Goodwin today suspended for ten days the license of Adolph M. Backstron of Cambridge for operating his aeroplane in a dangerous manner at the Harvard Stadium during the football game last Saturday.

He also suspended the registration of the machine for the same period.

In order to make visible an advertisement on the lower surface of the wings, Goodwin charged, Backstrom flew so low that many spectators complained that if anything had happened to the plane there was a possibility of serious injury to a large number of people.

"Backstrom won't fly over the stadium next Saturday anyway," declared Goodwin.

REVERE MAYOR OPENS CAMPAIGN TONIGHT

The opening gun in the mayoralty campaign of Revere will be fired tonight when a mass meeting will take place at City Hall by adherents of Mayor John E. Walsh, the present incumbent, who seeks re-election.

Mayor Walsh asks for re-election because of the city's financial record during his administration, declaring he had "re-established Revere's credit." He is a cousin of Senator David I. Walsh.

Fake Painters Bunco Methuen Owners of R. F. D. Boxes

Methuen, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Rural free delivery boxes here are glistening with new coats of paint put on by a pair of fake postal employes who collected 50 cents on each job and left town with the police on their heels.

The pair gave the owners of the boxes their choice in colors, but said that Uncle Sam had ordered that they be decorated or destroyed.

SOVIET 'SORRY' THAT U. S. BARS WOMAN ENVOY

Moscow, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Regret and disappointment, rather than resentment, are expressed in official Soviet circles at the refusal of the American government to permit Alexandra Kollantay, new Soviet minister to Mexico, to pass through the United States on her way to her new post.

Soviet diplomatic quarters today said that Mme Kolantay, who is Soviet Russia's sole woman diplomat, had intended only to pass through the United States to Mexico, and that she had no intention of remaining longer in the United States than the journey from New York to Mexico City would take.

Soviet officials said that this was the second instance in which Washington has declined recently to grant a visa to an important Soviet person, the first instance being that of Sokolnikov, former commissioner of finance, who sought to go to the United States to confer with American bankers about credits.

Arizona Vote Close

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 5 (A.P.).—With reports missing from eleven of the State's 459 precincts, it was indicated today an official count would be necessary to decide the Arizona gubernatorial contest in which Governor C. W. P. Hunt, Democrat, was leading his Republican opponent, E. S. Clark, by 265 votes.

SPANISH PLOT 'ARMY' DRIVEN TO PYRENEES

Perpignan, France, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Scattered bands of Spanish revolutionaries, completely disorganized, are seeking a hiding place on the Spanish side of the Pyrenees Mountains. Reports reaching here indicate that the intended rebellion in Catalonia was to have been on a larger scale than previously believed.

The border police have learned that more than 600 men were to have composed the original invading force. This was expected to receive important accessions at every town and village as it marched toward Barcelona.

Colonel Ricciotti Garibaldi, Italian of the Italian Liberator and one of the leaders of the anti-Fascist movement in Nice, is said to have been in close relation with the Fascist police. Garibaldi has been questioned at police headquarters in Nice concerning recent incidents on the Franco-Italian frontier and also with regard to the plot to invade Catalonia.

The police, who are investigating the activities of foreign political refugees in connection with anti-Mussolini plots and Catalonia, took Garibaldi to Paris. Garibaldi denied that he had been in connection with Fascist police.

Strolls in Pajamas Because He Lost Bet On Butler

Springfield, Nov. 5.—Arthur N. Napolitan of No. 826 Dickinson street, walked ten blocks along Main street to Court square which wouldn't mean a thing except that he was clad only in pajamas.

It was to settle an election bet, Napolitan having picked Butler to win the Senatorial election.

The pajama-trudger met three policemen on the way, but they exhibited only a mild interest in Napolitan and the throng of curious trailing.

HEARST MOVES TO START BIG PAPER MILLS IN ALASKA

Washington, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—William Randolph Hearst, publisher, filed an application today with the Federal Power Commission for a preliminary permit to construct a power project in Alaska for the manufacture of paper.

The application said Mr. Hearst contemplated a project at Port Snettisham in the Tongass National forest and a complete paper and pulp mill.

Several applications for preliminary permits with which the Hearst application is in conflict, are pending. A license issued to the Alaska Pulp and Paper Company in August, 1924, covers a part of the same project.

TECH STUDENT RIOT PROBED

GUARD FOR SNAKE DANCE

Unable to get bail for some time, Hallett was placed in the prisoners' dock beside a man charged with drunkenness, who shouted gleefully as the youth sat down beside him: "Raw! Raw! Raw!"

The other four arrested students were held for arraignment in Roxbury district court as an aftermath of the wild surge of students through the Tent dance hall in Huntington avenue, where men and girl dancers, cowering in the corners and ante-rooms, watched Boston police reserves drive the Tech men from the hall and away toward their Cambridge camp.

More reserves, armed with orders to stop rioting at any cost, will greet the snake-dance promised by the Technology students for tomorrow night if they come into Boston Superintendent Crowley declared.

STUDENTS MUST PAY.

Renewal of the rioting between the freshman and sophomore classes was feared at the annual Technology Field Day, which began shortly after noon, and Cambridge police were ready for trouble.

Dean Henry P. Talbot, after a conference with other officials of the school, decided not to call off this sport program. He promised that the students responsible for property damaged would be punished and the two classes assessed to pay for losses. Results of the investigation will be laid before President Samuel W. Stratton when he returns to Cambridge within a few days, the dean said.

"They may be students, but they haven't any more rights than any other person when it comes to destroying property and frightening and injuring innocent bystanders," said the police superintendent.

Twenty persons were injured and scores of others face expulsion from college as a result of the rioting.

Damage of more than $2,000 was done in the Back Bay dance hall, according to the police.

BATTLE STARTS ORGY.

Those arrested on charges growing out of the destruction of property gave their names as Arnold A. Smith, '28, Charles E. Lyon, '28 Prescott D. Crout, '28, and Sydney Hardwick '30.

It was a freshman-sophomore battle that began the night of orgy that extended from Harvard square to Park street, Boston, on the streets, on private property and even in the Cambridge tunnel, where the students took riotous possession of an entire train.

Six students are suffering from the effects of tear bombs used by the police. Another was hurt when run over by an automobile. Scores are nursing bruises and lacerations.

IN BOSTON SCHOOL

Miss Gladys Evelyn Reyes came all the way from California to enroll at the Leland Powers School to study for a stage career.

College authorities are investigating.

TEAR DOWN SIGNS.

All along the line of march, that extended from Technology through Massachusetts avenue to Brattle square, Cambridge and back and across the river as far as Huntington avenue, there were signs of destruction.

Store signs were torn down, window panes broken, automobiles wrecked, cars of the Boston Elevated halted, trolley cords cut and window grills ripped off while two cars on a train in the tunnel were put out of commission altogether.

The rioting began after the annual "rush night" in which the sophomores and freshmen contested for possession of a mound of loam on the college grounds.

A DISHEVELED LOT.

In Harvard square they attempted to take possession of a theatre but were repulsed by twelve husky Harvard students, ushers in the house, who barred the entrance until the arrival of the police.

One student was arrested at this point while trying to work mischief with a Boston Elevated car and the whole crowd of rioters, approximately 600 in number then stormed the Brattle square station attempting a rescue.

COCKTAIL GIRL GETS 3 YEARS

Bellows Falls, Vt., Nov. 5.—Minnie Olive Rushford, seventeen-year-old "Ginger Cocktail" girl of Sheriff Wallis L. Fairbanks' backwoods "bake" party will spend the next three years in the Industrial School at Vergennes.

This was the sentence the Waterbury "flapper" received when she pleaded guilty to an offense with Sheriff Fairbanks in the north part of this town on September 19.

Miss Rushford was arraigned before Judge Thomas E. O'Brien in Municipal Court, State's Attorney Piper of Brattleboro was the prosecuting officer. The proceedings lasted only a few minutes. She pleaded guilty. Judge O'Brien pronounced sentence and the girl was started on her way to the Industrial School.

She was a witness, with Irma Stoodley, 21-year-old State ward, at the trial of Sheriff Fairbanks. The sheriff was found guilty and sentenced to two years in State's prison. The Stoodley girl was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction for Women.

ONLY 3 OF 126 ORIGINAL LAMPLIGHTERS ON JOB

That picturesque being, always followed by a crowd of admiring youths, the lamplighter has gone from Boston streets, superseded by automatic lighters.

Out of the 126 that once paraded from light to light with their long handled torches, igniting the gas lights once serving all the city streets, only three now remain and these are not located in the city proper.

To find one of the "rare birds" now one must go to the Medford Fellsway, the Winchester Parkway or the Lynnway. These highways still have about 700 lights set aglow by man. Everywhere else a small automatic device sets off the gas.

Romance is gone from the occupation too, for instead of trudging about on foot the lighters that are left, chug around in a flivver, covering miles and miles of territory.

Don't hunt for apartments. Save time and trouble. Consult the Classified Ads and your problem will be solved. Classifications 95 and 97.

FROM VIENNA TO U. S. IN A 20-FOOT BOAT

Vienna, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Three adventurous Austrians have just set out in a 20-foot boat in an effort to reach America by way of the Danube, the Suez Canal and the Pacific Ocean.

The men are Hans Pisanis, Christian Jackobitsch and Antony Mendes. Their boat, sloop rigged, is equipped with a two-cycle gasoline engine and an Aldery.

None of the three has had any experience sailing small craft in any body of water larger than the Danube.

NEW CHECKS ON ANTI-FASCISTS

Rome, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Mussolini's scheme to introduce more drastic means of protecting the Fascist regime was presented by the Premier personally this morning at secret sessions of the Cabinet and the national Fascist directorate.

The Premier also had further conferences with Secretary-General Turati of the Fascist party, Minister of Interior Federsoni and Minister of Justice Rocco regarding three proposed measures, the first providing that the recently approved death penalty for attempts against the life of the Premier or members of the royal family be made retroactive; the second calling for reorganization of the police system, and the third authorizing sweeping revision of the membership of the Fascist party, with the object of weeding out suspected members.

It is understood that the retroactive death penalty law, to be drafted by Signor Rocco, will create a special branch court of cassation for the judgment of such cases, instead of leaving them to the ordinary jury courts.

Italy Cancels Passports; to Shoot All Fugitives

Rome, Nov. 5 (I.N.S.). — The cabinet today decided to cancel all passports as a part of the drastic program to check plots against the Premier and the Fascist government.

They aim to prevent anti-Fascists leaving Italy to hatch plots. The cabinet issued orders to soldiers at the frontier and customs stations to shoot any Italian Nationals who attempt to cross without authority.

Orders were also issued for the abolition of political anti-Fascist societies and newspapers.

DIE IN QUAKE IN NICARAGUA

Managua, Nicaragua Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Several persons were killed and severe property damage was caused early today when the worst earthquake since that of April, 1898, occurred. The duration of the quake was 50 seconds and the tremors were general throughout Nicaragua.

The national palace and the cathedral in Managua were badly damaged. The quake was extremely severe in the department of Masaya, near the Masaya volcano. Many houses were destroyed at Santiago.

Washington, Nov. 5 (I.N.S.).—A severe earth shock, 1,800 miles southwest of Washington, was registered on the seismograph at Georgetown University today.

New York, Nov. 5 (I.N.S.).—Officials in charge of the seismograph at Fordham University today confirmed the earthquake recorded on the Yale University seismograph at 3:58 o'clock today, and placed the locale of the shock at 2,127 miles south, or somewhere in the Caribbean Sea, near the Lesser Antilles. Fordham officials said the shock was "an extremely violent one."

FIRST NEGRO WOMAN DOCTOR IN STATE DEAD

New Bedford, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—The first negro woman in Massachusetts to win the right to practice medicine in this Commonwealth, Dr. Juan B. F. Drummond, is dead here. Dr. Drumond was sixty-two and had practiced medicine for thirty-four years.

She was a graduate of the Women's Medical College of Philadelphia, 1888. Through her mother she was descended from Paul Cuffe, negro patriot of the Revolutionary War.

NATIONAL GUARD PLANE TO FLY ACROSS AMERICA

Hartford, Ct., Nov. 5 (A.P.).—A cross-country flight from Santa Monica, Cal., to Hartford, bringing here the new 8-2 Douglas plane allotted to the local National Guard aviation unit, will be made by Lieutenant Louis N. Eller, regular army aviator asigned to the 118th Observation Squadron, accompanied by an officer of the local unit.

The National Guardsmen will eventually have three of these planes. It is expected. About a week is to be taken for the eastward flight.

Fur Coats

Natural Muskrat Coats $195 to $295	Russian Pony Coats $155 to $275
Caracul Coats $155 to $265	Beaver Coats $495

The Plan

You select your coat now—just at the beginning of the season when you want it most—instead of waiting until January—as formerly. By our plan of it will be paid for easily and conveniently with nothing to do but enjoy its use.

We believe women will appreciate the plan of dividing payments up into ten equal sums, payable monthly, thus distributing the cost so that it does not become a burden.

The sale offers splendid savings—this is the logical time to buy because you can wear your coat all season.

SEEK HIDING COAST GUARDSMEN

has the same o. the woman, but as has been this newspaper's policy throughout the investigation related exclusively to readers of the American, the name is withheld in order not to hamper the work of the investigators.

Early in the present year there was tragedy out on the Atlantic, just off Minot's Light. A rum car rier bearing the contraband from the runners at Rum Row to the shore was lost. The woman's husband was one of the men who went down into the sea.

SHE KNEW THE SECRET.

The woman's husband had confided much of his business dealings to his wife. She knew his employers, knew the caches for the liquor and the rum ships to deal with.

She went to the Boston bootleggers who had employed her husband, said that her husband had lost his life in their service, that she needed money and that she believed they owed her some compensation.

They laughed at her.

The woman did not bother to carry her plaint to local authorities.

She went direct to Washington and to the heads of the Coast Guard Service.

TOUCHES OFF BOMB.

Hardly had she started to tell her story at this office when she was informed that the quarters of the Prohibition Enforcement Department was the place to make her complaint.

And then she threw the first grenade that started the war that is not yet over.

She told the men high in the Coast Guard service that she had come to them because she had proof that Boston coast guardsmen were in collusion with the men who had employed her husband and with the Canadian rum-runners.

She astounded the officials by the details she was able to give, details which carried truth written in every word.

Then began the investigation, direct from Washington, not from Boston at all.

Secret service agents of the treasury department were placed on patrol boats at the Boston base.

To other secret agents was entrusted the dangerous job of securing positions as members of the crews of the Canadian rum-runners.

The rest is history to those who have followed the exclusive detailed accounts in the Boston American.

The Treasury Department believes it has cleaned up its case against the local coast guard men with one or two exceptions.

But the end is not yet.

The Treasury Department had nothing whatever to do with the Boston, Plymouth and Gloucester bootleggers, who were in the conspiracy.

These men, of course, are civilians.

But the Department of Justice is now conducting an investigation of its own, working from the land out on to Rum Row.

There will be more arrests, but they will be for the most part by Department of Justice men, and those arrested will be wholesale bootleggers who for years have defied the law.

They are wanted in connection with the investigation of connivance with rum-runners which climaxed with the arrest here of 25 guardsmen.

SEEK FUGITIVES.

At least one of the wanted men is near City Square, Charlestown. Whether the right search for him was successful, officers of the unit refused to disclose.

Another much-sought fugitive, believed to be hiding on Cape Cod, had probably eluded his pursuers and fled to sea with the aid of rum-running confederates.

Meanwhile the four petty officers arrested at Base 5 are lodged in "the brig" at Charlestown Navy Yard, while the enlisted men taken from four patrol boats at the East Boston base are detained under heavy guard.

Failure of commanders of Coast Guard boats and those of the Customs service to agree on the number and movements of rum-runners off "Rum Row" is stated to have been discussed at a recent "showdown" meeting of port officials at Washington.

Collector W. W. Lufkin and others of his staff were in conference with Customs and Prohibition Enforcement officers, it has been learned.

The startling disclosures made by the paper of conditions in this district are now admitted as having been known to Washington authorities for a long period of time.

Knows That Three in Guard Cleaned Up $150,000 in Year

(Copyright, 1926, by the Boston Evening American. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

The Boston Evening American continues its astounding revelations of connivance between Boston Coast Guardsmen and Canadian rum runners given by a Coast Guardsman, who admits his own guilt, and who has told what he knows because of his bitterness in the belief that he and his mates will draw the heaviest punishment, while "higher ups" escape.

"I know and a good many of the boys who served with me know that three Coast Guardsmen who held executive offices, though I don't say they are commissioned officers, cleaned up more than $150,000 between them in the last year. Here are their names." (The American withholds the names.)

"And they cleaned up this money as owners of the Louis Conrad. I, for one, know that they own the Louis Conrad, and I think that one of them had shares in the Ocean Maid.

"You can see where their profits would total high. The profits of the ordinary rum-runners are big enough, as everybody knows. But these men over us could command us to unload their boats for nothing and also protect the fleet of craft running the rum to shore.

"Accordingly they escaped two sources of taxation levied on the ordinary runners, and accordingly they could undersell the other rum runners by a wide margin.

"This graft among the Coast Guardsmen isn't new to the investigators. They have suspected it for at least a year. But until the greed of these guys over us got us all sore they couldn't pin anything on anybody.

"The investigators know that within a few months five suspected petty officers, in command of boats, got their discharges. Probably they would have beaten the charges, but instead of that they took discharges.

"I don't know whether the investigators knew it or not, but three of these officers went right out to their friends on the Row and now they are either mates or in command of Canadian rum-runners.

"Then there's the chief who was forced to get a discharge because he was too honest. That's the way we always described it through all the boys knew it wasn't because he was too honest, but fear of Atlanta that kept him from taking part in the graft out on Rum Row.

"His boat was ordered out to the Row one night when it was reported from Eastport that the George and Earle was on her way down. He was told by a higher-up to take his crew out and meet her at 6, and it was added: 'Of course you know the George and Earle is right.'

"He answered that he didn't care how right the George and Earle was, he wouldn't unload, and if he went out he would actually picket her for four days he was out there.

"He was told by the higher-up that he must be stupid if he didn't know enough to get it when the getting was good, and he answered that he didn't want to get Atlanta when the getting was bad.

"Then he was told that he ought to give somebody who knew enough to get it a chance to get it, and he answered that he was perfectly willing to take a discharge, and that if he was going to get Atlanta he would rather get it as a rum-runner than as a rum-chaser.

"He did get a discharge. He could probably have got a job on one of the runners, but he didn't want to leave home. So he went into the business of running the fleets of small boats out to the runners and to the shore. He carries no booze on his guide-boat, and I don't see how they can ever catch him, though plenty must suspect him. He gets a good cut on every case I suppose.

(This startling expose of Coast Guard conditions will be continued in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

The Boston Evening American today publishes photographs of the actual arrests of the Coast Guard crews suspected of being implicated in the rum smuggling plot. See these photographs on Page 3.

Face Prosecution for Evading Customs Law

The United States Customs Department today took a hand in the Coast Guard rum case.

Collector W. W. Lufkin said he would start an investigation to see if the Coast Guardmen had violated the customs laws by alleged collusion with the Canadian rum-runners, and if this is proved to be the case, the men will be charged on these counts after their court-martial.

To carry on the investigation the Collector today asked the Washington authorities for a faster and more seaworthy boat to replace the Dreamer, the one now in use by the customs men.

LOOT THEATRE SAFE OF $800

There were four men who went into the Central Square Moving Picture Theatre in Waltham for the last show that didn't come out with the rest of the audience—and the theatre safe was found cracked open early today with $800 gone.

The safe had been carried nearly 300 feet from the office to the orchestra pit and had been battered open with a sledge hammer.

BARES DEFICIT IN INSURANCE

Hartford, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Liabilities in the Automobile Insurance Company's report of December 31, 1925, were understated and "deliberately falsified," according to a report, just made public by the State Insurance department of William M. Corcoran, the department's actuary, to Commissioner Howard P. Dunham.

The report, submitted after an extensive examination of the company's affairs covering four years up to that date shows liabilities to have been understated by the company to the extent of $7,213,314 and a deficit of $6,294,368.

The Automobile Insurance Company, a subsidiary of the Aetna Life Insurance Company, early this year was reorganized following a decline in the price of the automobile company's stock from $875 to $370 a share. The report points out, however, that since a recent issue of $1,000,000 of new capital stock of $1,000 a share, $11,000,000 has been added to the surplus and "a reasonable sound financial condition of the company's affairs" created.

"Serious irregularities in the bookkeeping of company" and a "highly improper procedure," adopted with respect to its liabilities were reported. That marine insurance deals were made with London companies upon terms so disadvantageous to the automobile insurance company as to be called "preposterous" by underwriting officers of the London companies involved, was also revealed.

It was found, the report says, that, in various years, certain expenditures were charged to accounts for which NO such expenditures were, in fact, made. In certain cases also receipts were so entered as "to disguise the fact that corresponding liabilities were created.

NEW JAP 5-YEAR NAVY PROGRAM

Tokyo, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—The Japanese Cabinet has agreed to a five-year naval auxiliary building program involving approximately 261,000,000 yen. It was learned today from ordinarily reliable sources. The navy originally demanded 294,000,000 yen for this purpose.

It is said the program will include construction of four battle cruisers, fifteen destroyers, four submarines, three gunboats, one mine layer and one aircraft carrier.

TWIN FOOTBALL DANCES ON

College men, debutantes and others are looking forward with keen anticipation to the Harvard-Princeton dances tonight and tomorrow night at the Copley-Plaza, these dances being an innovation planned because of the popularity of the Harvard-Dartmouth and Harvard-Yale dances of the past.

With two orchestras providing music on each of the two nights and other features, the twin dances promise to be the outstanding collegiate public affair of the season as there will be no Harvard-Yale dance this year in Boston.

Some of the members of the rival teams are expected to attend Saturday night, Harvard and Princeton men will act as ushers, these including Richard Flood, Courtland Gross, John Randolph Burke, William P. Ellison, Robert A. Magowan and Joseph F Burns of Harvard, and R Carter Burns, Thomas Hale, Montgomery Carroti, Rembert W. LaBeaume, LeBaron Rockwell and Frank Peabody of Princeton.

The Lord Bishop Was Late at the Wedding

Sir Arthur Sullivan, composer of Pinafore, Mikado, etc., was the organist at a notable wedding at which the Lord Bishop was to officiate Sullivan played through his wedding programme and still the Bishop had not arrived So the great organist played Mendelssohn's "I waited for the Lord." No Bishop yet,—so Sir Arthur then played a popular song, "Will he come?" That brought him, greatly to the bride's relief.

Why wait longer for the new Piano you need so much? Fill your home with Joy and happiness with a wondrous Player Piano, the Autovoice, or a supremely fine Grand Piano, the Kranich & Bach. BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Frances Weld Is United in Marriage to Robert Wales Emmons 3d, Today

Three Bridal Attendants and Smart Usher List Take Part in Important Ceremonial

LISSOM AND DELICATELY blonde, Miss Frances Weld's flower-like beauty is exactly the sort to hold every eye in admiration as she marches to the altar today and comes down the aisle again as Mrs. Robert Wales Emmons, 3d.

BLESSED WITH that indescribable thing called charm, possessing a lilting soprano voice and popular as the day is long, Miss Weld is the ideal girl of the smart world born to the purple and adorning her sphere.

SHE HAS but three attendants. One is Mrs. R. Colgate Vernon Mann (Margaret Stonel and another is the former Miss Gertrude Russell, whom Benjamin F. Rice Bassett captured as a matrimonial prize and carried off to Gotham to live.

MISS MAGDALENA GREENSLET is the third. A slender dark-eyed slip of a girl, Miss Greenslet spends a part of her time in Boston, and a part in England, so that she but infrequently appears in her Boston circle.

THE PROCESSIONAL takes length and picturesqueness from its masculine members. Mr. Emmons will have fifteen men in his staff. Frederic Cameron Church, Jr., spouse of the former Muriel Vanderbilt, is an usher.

MR. EMMONS was an usher when Mr. Church married the Golden Girl of Vanderbilt plutocracy down at Newport Summer before last. Now the roles are reversed and Mr. Church helps seat the guests.

LAURENCE B. VAN INGEN, Thomas Robins, Jr., A. Cosier Schermerhorn, Prentice Talmage, James Otis, Thornton Emmons, Robert B. Choate, Daniel Freeman, Winslow S. Felton, Robert Lancaster, William B. Rogers, George L. Wrenn, 2d., Richard Sears Humphrey and George S. Weld serve.

QUITE AN OVERWHELMING array of smart young men, to be sure. Needless to say they'll be faultlessly turned out, from gleaming topper to very correct spats, and lend no end of elegance and finish to the display.

USELESS CLUB cohorts are coming into town to celebrate at the Club's annual autumn dance, and to precede the dance with an informal dinner done as only the Useless Club can do such festivities.

FIRST AND FOREMOST in the set come Mr. and Mrs. James Cummings Barr. The hands of the debonnaire and she of the beautiful frocks set off with antique costume jewels such as every woman longs to possess.

GODFATHER and godmother to Useless Club members, no gathering is complete without the Barrs. Miss Eleonora Sears likewise sheds her light on the dance. In fact her acceptance was one of the first to come in.

CLUB HEAD

Miss Peggy Porter is found in merry mood by the camera man. Vincent Club destinies this season rest mainly in her youthful hands as the newly-elected President.

Useless Club Cohorts Gathering to Attend Annual Autumn Dance in Hub

MISS SYLVIA HILLHOUSE of New York and Newport, the Misses Yuille, Mrs. W. Deering Howe, packs their smartest frocks into a weekend t- ks and treks hither as Useless Club guests.

AND BOSTON beauties, such as Miss Margaret Curtis, Miss Penelope Curtis, Miss Betty Beal, Miss Ella Snelling and Miss Georgiana ..awkins, put on their very prettiest frocks and dance way into the morning hours to the Useless Club tune.

NEWLYWEDS are gravitating to Beacon Hill with wise discrimination. Latest to select its old-world setting for their new household goods, Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Fay are about to move into their Charles Street apartment.

MRS. FAY was Miss Madeleine Beals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mauran Beals, son of Mrs. Dudley B. Fay. Mr. Fay belongs to that select set that calls Nahant its Summer home, and it was in the Nahant church that the Beals-Fay wedding was celebrated.

MRS. JONATHAN BROWN, JR., has gone down to Pittsburgh for a visit. It's to be a bit of relaxation after a strenuous time. For Mrs. Brown has just passed through the throes of arranging a big wedding, and entertaining a houseful of guests.

DONE WITH TRUE Brown hospitality, entertainment for Miss Gretchen Brown and Mr. James Crossan Craplin, 3d, went on unceasingly for a week before the marriage itself, which was celebrated with due ceremonial on October 16. Now the young people are honeymooning in the South.

BRIGHTON SEMINARY GETS PRIEST'S LIBRARY

The will of the Rev. James J. O'Brien, pastor and founder of St. Catherine's Church, No. 183 Somerset street, Somerville, was filed in the Middlesex Probate Court.

He died Oct. 29 after failing health, which continued over a period of several months. No value of his estate was filed.

St. John's Boston Ecclesiastical Seminary in Brighton receives his library, according to the terms of his last testament, while to his successor he bequeaths all the furniture, paintings, engravings and personal effects remaining in the rectory. To his housekeeper, Miss Lizzie Ryan, he leaves $500.

STARS WILL AID BENEFIT SHOW

All the bright stars of the theatre now playing engagements in Boston will be on hand to contribute to the long and varied entertainment at the midnight benefit show tonight at the Metropolitan in aid of the Christy Mathewson memorial fund.

Isabel Baring

Al Jolson will be there with songs new and old—and stories, mostly new; De Wolf Hopper, elongated comedian of "The Student Prince," is scheduled for his renowned recitation of "Casey At the Bat"; Madge Kennedy and Sidney Blackmer will offer a tender scene or two from "Love In a Mist," now at the Park; and the full strength of the male chorus from "The Student Prince" will be exerted to provide a volume of sweet sounds.

From the Mordkin Ballet at the Opera House, Mlle. Marvin and M. Arshansky will be seen in one of their divertisements; Gregory Kelly and Isabel Baring of "The Butter and Egg Man" at the Plymouth will appear in a special sketch prepared by Mr. Kelly; Joe Allen, comedian of "The Patsy" at the Wilbur, has some funny yarns to "spring" on the audience; Beverly Bayne and Ann Codee will come over from Keith's, and numerous other features will be supplied by all local theatres.

KING FERDINAND GREETS MISSION FROM ITALY

Bucharest, Rumania, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—An Italian mission, headed by the Duke of Spoleto and Marshal Badoglio arrived here today. King Ferdinand personally greeted the visitors at the railway station and escorted the Italians to the royal palace.

When it was announced recently that the Italian mission was to visit Rumania, the newspapers in the Rumanian capital hinted that there was a possibility of a marriage between Crown Prince Humbert of Italy and Princess Ileana, who is at present with her mother, Queen Marie, in the United States.

WHITEMAN DUE IN HUB TONIGHT

Paul Whiteman, "King of Jazz," arrives in Boston tonight with the latest jazz songs and his celebrated band. Direct from California, Whiteman is prepared to treat residents of this city to a real "jazz week" celebration.

The music leader has had a marvelous career. It was only a few years ago that he was driving a taxicab somewhere "out West." His first public success, of importance enough to mention, was in New York. Soon his orchestra was Paul Whiteman in demand by phonograph concerns.

It was three years ago that he created a sensation with his symphonic jazz concert in Carnegie Hall. Some of the numbers rendered at that time will be repeated at the Metropolitan Theatre, where he is billed for a week. His first appearance will be tomorrow.

$3,000,000 ALUMNI FUND PREVENTS YALE DEFICIT

New Haven, Nov. 5.—An alumni fund, now totalling over $3,000,000, prevents a deficit at Yale. In the last fiscal years $326,886 from the fund helped pay the university's expenses of $4,673,441.

'CANCEL WAR DEBT'–MALVY

By HARRY R. FLORY.
(Copyright, 1926, by International Service)

Paris, Nov. 5.—Ratification of the Washington debt accord with certain reservations as a preliminary to an international debt conference and possible eventual cancellation of both debts and reparations is the thesis of M. Louis Malvy, French deputy and faithful henchman of ex-Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux.

"I believe the problem of debts ought to be taken up after ratification and definitely settled at an international conference with Germany participating," M. Malvy declared.

"I hope, as does my eminent friend, M. Caillaux, that the policy of 'wiping the slate' can soon be inaugurated. But I recognize that such a policy presupposes the adhesion of the United States.

"I must admit, however, that I have been influenced by warnings of the dangers of ratification without reservations.

"A reservation stating that the annuities be fixed in taking into account the French capacity to pay, might suffice."

Election Upset

IT'S DEMOCRATIC!
Representative-elect James E. Hagan, the first Democrat in 23 years to represent Somerville, and the second in 70 years. He carried the new 23d Middlesex District.

When Representative-elect James E. Hagan of the Twenty-third District, Somerville, takes his seat in the Legislature, he will be the first Democratic Representative from Somerville in twenty-seven years and only the second in forty.

He defeated former Alderman George W. Pratt, Republican, in a Democratic landslide, by a vote of 2,741 to 806.

Only twenty-four years old, the Representative-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hagan of No. 351 Washington street. He played on the championship Somerville High School baseball team of 1920 and now is employed in a Boston leather house.

He is a member of Mt. Benedict Council, 75, Knights of Columbus, Somerville Aerie of Eagles and Benedict Court No. 33, M. C. O. F.

DRY LAW VIOLATOR MADE STATE SENATOR

Minneapolis, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—A. L. Lennon, under conviction and sentence for a prohibition law violation, was elected State senator from the 28th district by a 5 to 1 majority over his opponent, F. J. Kane, in Tuesday's election, complete returns indicated today.

Lennon, former president of the St. Anthony Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was one of 18 persons arrested when the Eagles Lodge building was raided by prohibition agents last year. He was convicted of maintaining a liquor nuisance, but has appealed.

ANOTHER CANTONESE VICTORY PREDICTED

Amoy, China, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—The impending capture of another province from Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang by the Cantonese is suggested by reports that the southerners have taken Changchow in the southern part of Fukien province and are nearing Yenping from the north.

In the Yenping sector the military tunchun, Chow Yen-Hsu is said to have lost military equipment of an estimated value of more than a million dollars. Observers are inclining that Cantonese will have full control of the entire province within a few days.

TRAIN KILLS 3 HORSES; OWNER IS UNCONCERNED

St. Albans, Vt., Nov. 3 (A.P.).—When the fast Washington-Montreal express pulled in here last night, thirty minutes late, the "cow catcher" was splashed with blood and parts of flesh.

Road headquarters was advised the express, traveling at a 45-mile-an-hour clip, had ploughed into five horses at Brossard, Quebec, killing three of them. The owner, when notified, the crew said, expressed no concern and did not even bother to leave his house and view the dam age.

'DUTCH' HENRY GOING TO JAIL

With the dismissal of the appeal of Ernest (Dutch) Henry today, the four men convicted in the Chelsea wholesale liquor charges in Federal Court last December will begin serving sentence in a few days.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Hubert C. Thompson said the government would ask for re-imposed sentences immediately. Henry was sentenced to one year and a day and fined $1,000; George Weinstein, Louis Siegal and Sam Zedman were each sentenced to eighteen months and fined $1,000.

The appeals of the last three from their sentences were denied some time ago.

"YOU OUGHT TO HEAR THE GOSSIPS!" SAYS HUGHES

New York, Nov. 5.—Rupert Hughes at bat again. He says that the not particularly blameworthy facts about George Washington which he has revealed cannot hold a candle to untrue stories whispered in corners of rooms by ardent Virginians.

ISSUES CALL TO WAR VETS TO READJUST INSURANCE

Washington, Nov. 5 (I.N.S.) A call to World War veterans to reinstate or convert insurance without further delay was issued today by Brig.-Gen. John V. Clennin, National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans.

During the last session of Congress the time for the reinstatement or conversion of the war risk insurance was extended to next July 1.

DECLARES HUNGARY WILL UNITE WITH RUMANIA

Former Hungary Nov 5 (A.P.).—Former Minister of Justice Jay Nady stated in the Parliament today that everything had been prepared for an early union of Hungary with Rumania under Carolman sovereignty. Great Britain he added, did not approve the plan.

No member of the government was fit to reply to Nady's allegation it is said, however that such a union is desired by a large section of the Hungarian nobility.

URGE REFORM IN DEFENSE FORCE

Berlin, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—At the investigation of Reichstag President Loebe, the managing committee of the German Republican League today summoned the Republican groups in the Reichstag to demand a reform of the methods of enlisting the nation's forces of defense.

The summons states that "the recent illegal enlistment of the eldest son of the former Crown Prince as well as the legal enlistment of sons of other crown pretenders, but especially the habitual co-operation of official departments of the Reichswehr with pronouncedly anti-republican organizations in recruiting soldiers and candidates for military commissions, are a source of disquietude for Republicans."

The deputies are urged to insist that authorization for military stations to enlist men be entrusted to representatives of the Ministry of Defense and the Reichstag.

Participation of Prince Wilhelm, son of the former Crown Prince, in the Reichswehr manoeuvers of late September caused a scandal which culminated in the resignation of General Von Seeckt as commander-in-chief of the Reichswehr.

$6,000,000 IN RUM SEIZED

New York, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Six million dollars worth of liquor was in possession of prohibition agents today in what it said to be the largest bonded warehouse in America, and nineteen men, unconnected with the warehouse, were under indictment as marine bootleggers and hijackers who staged a champagne bathtub party while a coast guard destroyer chased their vessel. The warehouse, owned by the Keap Warehouse, Inc., was seized by men under Prohibition Administrator Chester P. Mills, who said he had information the liquor was not being handled in accordance with the law. About two weeks ago twenty-three barrels of medicinal whiskey were stolen from the warehouse by robbers who shot and wounded a policeman in making their escape.

The warehouse contains 250,000 gallons of whiskey in 5,000 barrels.

Mr. Mills said he expected to test and regauge all of the liquor.

The story of the champagne bathtub party was revealed in federal court when Walter Weider was arraigned. Two indictments alleged that the ship Elma took aboard 4,138 cases of liquor last May from another ship off Cape Hatteras.

Hijackers planted in the crew, it is charged, then seized the ship, locked up the officers and proceeded to emulate a famous Broadway bathtub party, with a grizzled hijacker in a blonde wig taking the part of the chorus girl.

FIREMEN SAVE DROWNING MAN

With the aid of ropes and ladders the crew of Ladder 8 of the Fi[re] Department early today rescue[d] Timothy Kennedy of Silver street, South Boston, from drowning [in] South Bay, off Albany street.

The firemen were called to th[e] scene by a patrolman who hear[d] Kennedy's cries for help, but wa[s] unable to reach him.

It was believed Kennedy fell in to the water while wandering about in the dark, in the rear of the City yards at No. 660 Albany street.

At the City Hospital he was reported suffering from immersion

HOLD WOMAN IN STABBING CASE

Portland, Me., Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Police called to the Walker street garage early today found Philip J. Quinn bleeding from stab wounds on the left side, near the heart. He was hurried to the Maine General Hospital where his name was placed on the danger list.

Turning to the garage, the police found Mrs. Reta Crocker in an automobile nearby. After some questioning, they said she admitted she had stabbed Quinn, whom she was alleged to have visited frequently in the early morning hours at the garage.

At her home on Clark street, the police found a short-bladed knife, which she alleged she admitted having used. She was arrested.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—All buildings at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition in which merchandise is sold will be closed on Sundays, the director announced today.

The action was taken to assure the strict enforcement of the State Court's ruling against Sunday sales. Amusements on the Midway will be closed on the Sabbath.

CHASED FROM LIGGETT HOME

Newton police today reported that two nights ago prowlers were detected and chased from the Chestnut Hill estate of Louis K. Liggett, founder of the United Drug Company, at No. 185 Hammond street.

These prowlers, the police believe are the men who burglarized the residence of Mose W. Snyder, Boston leather merchant, at No. 462 Waverly avenue, stealing $15,000 in jewelry and other articles.

The same men, it is also believed, broke into the Liggett mansion in an unsolved burglary which took place last year and in which $50,000 worth of property was stolen. No clues have been uncovered on the Snyder Burglary.

ARREST JANITOR IN $74,000 LOS ANGELES BANK THEFT

Los Angeles, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Theft of $74,000 from the Los Angeles branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco was disclosed by the police today with the arrest of Wesley Davis, a janitor, and recovery of $71,838 hidden in his home.

An automobile which Davis declared he purchased with a part of the money was seized. He said he found the money on the floor of one of the cages.

Hall Trial Witness

PREPARED TO GIVE EVIDENCE

Mrs. Marie Demarest (left), called to testify at the Hall-Mills trial; her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Schenck, and Mrs. S. Hendricks listening to evidence.

Slain Woman's Daughter

Most pathetic of all the actors in the Hall-Mills case, Charlotte Mills, sobs as she tells the story of her dead mother's relations with the slain pastor.

The girl was caught by the camera while on her way to court to attend the trial of the pastor's widow and her two brothers for murder.

'PIG WOMAN' DENOUNCED BY HER MOTHER

Hoboken, N. J., Nov. 5 (I.N.S.)—"I am ashamed of being her mother but I am going to tell all about her."

The statement was made today by Mrs. Calowa Cavender, mother of the "Pig Woman of Middlebush," star witness for the prosecution in the Hall-Mills murder trial.

"She's a liar, she's mean, and she's not a good woman," the aged woman said. "My daughter's first name is Mary, not Jane. She was first born in Kentucky, as she says, but in New York City on December 6, 1873. She was married when she was fifteen to Frederick Kesselring who used to have a dressmaking shop in Newark. That about her horseback riding in a circus is just whether of her fakes. She is living with a watchmaker. She says she is married to him. The child June is not an adopted daughter, but my daughter's own child, born on June 18, 1923. Her name is June Whitmore.

"The way my daughter got the name Gibson was by buying the Gibson farm. She took the name with it."

place you have described or is it a "phoney" picture?' As far as I know it is a true picture.

Q.—Well, come down to the point! Is the locality of the crab apple tree the same or has it been pulled down to China? A.—Idon't think so.

Despite admission of the picture as evidence case, continued to argue against it because of typographical changes.

Quizzed About Tree

Senator Case brought out, over Simpson's objection that foliage, surrounding the crab apple tree would had made it difficult for any one standing where Mrs. Jane Gibson was supposed to have stood to see the tree.

The photographer was a pudgy-faced man, with prominent nose, full lips, graying hair. He wore shell-rimmed glasses with gold bows. He smoke in a low tone, but clearly, being in no way "rattled" by the prosecutor's occasional sarcasm.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES TOWNS IN NICARAGUA

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—San Juan was shaken by a strong earthquake early today. The movement lasted for about 30 seconds. No serious damage has been reported. Dispatches say the towns of Granada and Rivas also felt the shock.

MILLS' SLAYER TORE OUT HER TONGUE

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 5.—The suddenly precarious health of the State's star witness, and the opinion of a doctor based on autopsies that the slayers of Mrs. Eleanor Mills had torn her tongue out by the roots, gave them the centre of the stage today in the drama of the Hall-Mills mystery.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, raiser of pigs, and former circus rider, who claims to have viewed the double slaying, was seriously ill in the Somerville Hospital, with the prosecution's hopes of building the strongest possible case fluctuating inversely to her high temperature, when the findings of Dr. Otto H. Schultze were announced.

Despite her serious condition it was reported that Mrs. Gibson might be taken to court later in the day on a stretcher. Her condition this morning was said to be "improved."

Dr. Schultze, who performed an autopsies four years ago, and again recently on the bodies of Mrs. Mills and the Rev. Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, revealed before court the gist of what his testimony on the stand today would be.

At a second autopsy four years ago Dr. Schultze discovered that the choir singer's throat had been slashed after she was killed. The bodies were exhumed recently a second time for third autopsies at which Dr Schultze gave particular attention to her throat because of rumors that her tongue had been cut out.

He found, he said, that the choir singer's tongue and the larynx containing the vocal cords, had been torn out by a hand thrust far down into the throat either at the time she was killed or shortly thereafter. Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson declared after the third autopsy that Dr. Schultze had told them there was no evidence the tongue had been cut out.

TEN N. Y. CONGRESSMEN TO HEED WET MANDATE

New York, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Ten of New York State's forty-three Congressmen have notified the New York Herald-Tribune in response to an inquiry that they would follow the mandate of the prohibition referendum and vote for the repeal or modification of the Volstead act.

All of the Congressmen, with the exception of James M. Mead of Buffalo, are from New York city.

J. Mayhew Wainwright of Westchester would not commit himself, saying it was too early, and Gale H. Stalker of Elmira telegraphed that he would continue efforts to strengthen the eighteenth amendment.

SAYS GIRL PREACHER IS "WORKING" ILLEGALLY

Pittsburgh, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—The Children's Service Bureau has threatened legal action against Dr. J. S. Weakland, local evangelist, if he persists in allowing his fourteen-year old daughter, Betty, to deliver talks from pulpits.

The bureau maintains the child's activities constitute a form of employment for gain and as such is illegal in Pennsylvania. Dr. Weakland said he believed the child evangelist preaching nothing more than good works and he will consult with counsel.

Urges Athletics to Curb Smoking by College Girls

Topeka, Kans., Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Competitive athletics would prove effective in discouraging the use of cigarettes by college women, in the opinion of Dr. F. C. Allen, director of athletics at the University of Oklahoma.

"College men playing on varsity teams are using less cigarettes than sorority women," Dr. Allen declared in an address to Kansas teachers here.

This condition prevails, he believes, because educators have failed to interest young women in activities that demand a standard of physical training such as is maintained by men athletes.

JESTER IN GRIM DRAMA AT COURT IN JERSEY

Charlotte Fears For Life of "Pig Woman"

By CHARLOTTE MILLS

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 5.—Poor Mrs. Gibson, I am all upset over her. It seems there is always something happening to me—something to make me miserable. I wanted Mrs. Gibson to testify.

I have always thought that she could help to clear up the whole mystery. And now she lies seriously ill. This morning everybody is talking about her, wondering whether she will be well enough to testify soon. There is more interest in her now than in anything else.

Charlotte Mills

Last night I went over to the hospital to see if I could visit Mrs. Gibson for a few minutes. I have always liked her and I thought I would like to see her.

But I was refused permission. She was guarded by a State trooper. Then I inquired about her condition and they told me she was no better. Poor Mrs. Gibson.

Late yesterday while she was suffering in the hospital there was a wrangle about whether they should take her testimony there. But the court decided to wait to see if she got better.

WHY ARE THEY AFRAID?

Senator Simpson wanted to have her testimony taken now because he was afraid she might die before she could tell her story of what she saw and heard that night my poor mother and Dr. Hall were so brutally murdered.

Fate has interfered so much in my life already, it would be a terrible blow to me if it stepped in again and left this mystery of my mother's death to haunt me always That would be too much.

Senator Simpson also said that if the defense counsel didn't stop worrying him so much with their picayune objections he would ask that some one else be assigned to the case in his place. I hope nothing like that happens because he certainly has conducted the case well, and it has moved very quickly with that first negligent investigation.

FAITH IN JERSEY JUSTICE.

I am beginning to have faith again in Jersey justice. And the way Senator Simpson snaps at the Hall attorneys is very amusing. I can really laugh sometimes at his sallies I would be frantic with misery if it weren't for him.

Ralph Gorsline was very nervous on the stand. He swore he didn't see anyone that night he heard the shots which killed my mother near DeBussey's Lane. Catherine Rastall, who was with him that night also testified.

FINGERPRINT EXPERTS SHATTER ALIBI OF WILLIE STEVENS, SAYS DAMON RUNYON

BY DAMON RUNYON

Universal Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1926, Universal Service.)

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 5.—Always the spindle on the State's wheel of circumstantial evidence in the Hall-Mills murder case, whirling round and round the circle of the Stevens clan, stops dead at the pop-eyed "Willie" Stevens.

They have splintered his alibi and dent styles in finger prints among the human race, saying there are four, the arch, the whorl, the loop, the composite. "Willie's" type is the arch, he said, and only about five per cent of the human race have it.

"Willie" seemed intensely concerned by this announcement.

His sister, Mrs. Hall, usually most grave, smiled quite often. Henry Stevens never changed his expression as the slow moving, sedate Faurot, bald and moustached, told the tale of finger prints.

ATTACK "PIG WOMAN"

General McCarter, head of the so-called "million dollar defense" that surrounds Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry, and the bushy-haired, wild-looking "Willie," arose very grave and made a verbal attack on "the pig woman's" character.

"This woman is an absolutely unreliable witness, in our opinion. She has given, to our knowledge, at least six versions, all contradictory of what she says she saw.

"Naturally we will subject her to a very rigorous and painstaking examination, and we most strenuously object to having the court and jury and the defendants —and I question the court's right to so order the latter's removal from incarceration—go to the hospital to see this woman."

It wound up with Judges Parker and Clearwater, the old and young jurists who are presiding over the court of Oyer and Terminer, before which the case is being tried, taking the matter into their own hands. They went to the hospital to determine the condition of "the pig woman" for themselves.

MRS. HALL SMILES

Commissioner Joseph Faurot was still on the stand when Senator Simpson notified the Court of "the Pig Woman's" possibly fatal illness. He put in the better part of an hour delivering a sort of lecture to the jury on the subject of finger prints in general, and "Willie's" Stevens' finger prints in particular.

One of the most interested listeners was this same "Willie" Stevens. He sat over on the other side of the room with Mrs. Hall and Henry Stevens, and his eyes seemed to be bulging right up against the thick lenses of his spectacles as he listened to Commissioner Faurot tell the jury that there was no doubt that the finger prints on the mortuary marker at Rev. Hall's foot were Willie's.

However, "Willie" at times seemed amused.

He would whisper to those around him, and grin.

He produced a large bundle of photographs which were enlargements of "Willie's" finger print, and which were passed around among the jury.

General McCarter for the defense kept objecting to the introduction of anything bearing on the finger prints until she defense had had the opportunity of studying the card, but Judge Parker said they can do that later.

Faurot then gave a demonstration of how finger prints are taken. He suggested a street salesman barking his wares as he stood before the jury with a blank sheet of paper on which he made an imprint of his own fingers. Then he sprinkled it with black powder, and lo, the imprint came out like magic. The jurors looked at one another.

Faurot explained that the perspiration, or grease, from his fingers collected the powder, but he gave still another demonstration of the art of finger printing with a little rubber roller and printer's ink. He followed this by hooking his mysterious wooden box up with the electric light on the stenographer's desk and flooding its interior with light.

His explained that this was his own invention to assist him in his study of finger prints. He looked as if he was about to start an old time magic lantern show. He promised the jurymen they could have his box when they got ready.

He explained all about the different styles in finger prints among criminals, saying there are four, the arch, the whorl, the loop, the composite. "Willie's" type is the arch, he said, and only about five per cent of the human race have it.

"Willie" seemed intensely concerned by this announcement.

His sister, Mrs. Hall, usually most grave, smiled quite often. Henry Stevens never changed his expression as the slow moving, sedate Faurot, bald and moustached, told the tale of finger prints.

TELLS OF TRYST

Before Faurot took the stand two other finger print experts, Fred Drewers, a police officer of Newark, and Edward A. Schwartz, a bald, solid-looking man, who has been superintendent of barens records in Newark for over twenty years, identified "Willie's" finger marks as being the same that appeared on the card.

This card, a narrow slip of paper about three inches long and an inch and a half wide, is now famous as exhibit s-17.

It was the State's round again today, all things considered. The finger print testimony seemed disturbing to the party gathered around the table on the defense's side of the room. There was much whispered consultation, and both Senator Case and General McCarter fought hard to keep out the finger prints for the time being.

Ralph Gorsline and Miss Catherine L. Rastall, the couple that were in a parked car in De Russy's lane on the night of the murder, were both on the stand, but in the light of the fingerprint developments, and the announcement about "the pig woman's" condition, they do not rate high among the sensations of the day. As a matter of fact, they were not sensational at all.

Gorsline, a married man, and a vestryman of Dr. Hall's church, had met Miss Rastall in the street in New Brunswick the night of the here today. The verdict automatically carries a penalty of death.

murder and invited her into his automobile, saying he would drive her home.

Instead of going immediately to her home, he drove to De Russy's lane. He said he got there about 10.15, turned into a little lane off De Russy's and extinguished the lights.

Within a very few minutes he heard a mumbling of human voices not far away, then one shot, a woman's scream, then three shots in rapid succession. Next he heard a moaning. He says he backed out of the lane in short order, and drove away, taking Miss Rastall home. The girl told about the same story.

Gorsline is a long, lean, lanky fellow with a narrow face, and a narrow head, and a wide mouth with loose lips. Senator Simpson mentioned him as a hostile witness in a comment to the court.

He turned a pair of listless eyes on Senator Simpson when Simpson asked him if he hadn't visited the Burns Detective Agency on October 1, 1923 and told a detective named William Garvin that his conscience troubled him and that he wished to tell the truth about that night in De Russy's lane.

"Didn't you tell Garvin that you saw Henry Stevens in the lane with a gun in his hand, and didn't you say he said to you 'What the hell are you doing here? This is our affair—get out of here,' and fired three shots in the ground? And didn't you say you were taken to a lodge room and made to swear you wouldn't tell what you saw?"

"Absolutely not," replied Gorsline.

FACES DEATH PENALTY FOR ATTACK ON GIRL

Orlando, Fla., Nov. 5 (I.N.S.).—A. B. Christie, formerly of Minneapolis, who is charged with assault upon a young Orlando woman, was found guilty by a jury in Circuit Court here today. The verdict automatically carries a penalty of death.

TRUCE IN FIGHT ON TRAIN OF QUEEN MARIE

Queen Marie's Train En Route to Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Queen Marie's special train moved toward Vancouver today with a truce, temporary at least, having outwardly closed the breach among the controlling parties aboard.

Major Stanley Washburn, special aide to her majesty, and Samuel Hill, eccentric millionaire who inspired Marie to come from Rumania to dedicate his unfinished Museum of Fine Arts at Maryhill, Washington, were aboard the train despite Hill's announced intention to put the majesty off.

Major Washburn will remain with the party at the request of Colonel John H. Carroll, official host to the queen, who, with Washburn, left Marie's box in the Portland Horse Show after Hill threatened to step Major Washburn and to "crush" him if the aide disobeyed his orders. Hill had declared he was "done" of the tour.

Hill and Carroll attended the Queen at a dinner and later during the brief visit to a theatre, but Major Washburn remained in his private car. Major Washburn moved his staff into Colonel Carroll's car, permitting Hill to house his party in Washburn's car, Miss Lois Fallon, Museum director and former fiancee, who was praised by Queen Marie at Maryhill for her friendship and assistance during the war, is a member of Hill's party.

Another edifice built by Hill awaited Marie's inspection today at Stonehenge, a memorial commemorating a century of peace between the United States and Canada.

Wounded by a bullet, Princess Drift Snow, a prize carrier pigeon, arrived in Portland, Ore., from Maryhill, with a message from Queen Marie to California. The bird released by the Queen at Maryhill, was suffering from a deep gunshot wound in the breast and in the legs and feet.

The message, which will go to San Francisco by other carrier pigeons, says: "I am sorry I cannot come to your sunny California. I send my best wishes to my people in your state."

SCIENTIST DROPS DEAD AFTER HIS "BEST DINNER"

Manchester, Eng., Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Dr. W. B. Fothergill, noted gynecologist, dropped dead after concluding of a humorous speech delivered at the University banquet. His last words were:

"I have enjoyed tonight one of the best dinners I can remember."

Queen Urges Movies for Teaching Children

by Queen Marie of Rumania

I have heard that in America plans are progressing for teaching children by means of motion pictures. What a day of rejoicing that will be for the youngsters!

As a small girl I was not fond of learning, nor was I a good or interesting pupil. I just plodded along and delighted when a lesson "fell but." Modern children seem to learn with more pleasure, probably because lessons are made more interesting that formerly and the method of much instruction and much actual seeing of the sights and processes of the world about them impresses the youthful mind.

One of the lessons I always loved despite my poor scholarship was the history lesson because there were wonderful picture books connected with it, and nothing sticks in the mind like pictures. How well I remember the Queen Philippa on her knees pleading with Edward I. for the lives of the Burghers of Calais, and of King Alfred sitting before a cottage fire whilst the bread burned, and Charles le Gros on his fat horse—so that ever after all through my life, whenever I saw a fat sort bowed I would call it "the horse of Charles le Gros."

Then there was old Charlemagne with his long beard, sitting dead on his throne in the vaults of Aye la Chapelle, and Nelson receiving his death-wound, Napoleon at St. Helena, Christopher Columbus sighting America, Bleriot alighting before the tower where Richard the Lion-hearted was held captive, the "Mayflower" landing, and what not else!

But although I learned badly, we travelled a lot. My parents were always moving about between England, Russia, Germany and Malta, taking in Italy, Switzerland and other countries on the way, to show us children the sights.

Thus did our eyes receive early training for beauty. We were given visions of exquisite palaces and monasteries, cathedrals and quaint walled towns. Some have never left my mind, and all through life, no matter how often I see them again, that first impression of wonder and of loveliness remains.

St. Peter's at Rome; the Leaning Tower of Pisa; the canals and palaces of Venice, Gamaldoli, near Naples; the Blue Grotto of Capri, the Temples of Girgenti; the Kremlin of Moscow; the Winter Palace of St. Petersburg; the Old World charm of Nuremburg, and so on.

It was all like a vast picturebook then, too, travel teaches languages, teaches us to understand other people and become fond of them, promotes friendship and common interests.

I am strongly for travel, for old and young, so long as it does not make of you a homeless wanderer, with no roots anywhere. One must always be glad "to come home," to keep one's own nationality, but unaggressively, with an ever deepening comprehension of others.

OPEN PROBE ON VARE; FRAUD CHARGED

Washington, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—The drive against seating William S. Vare, R., as the junior senator from Pennsylvania in the Seventieth Congress, has opened.

Senator Norris, Nebraska., who spoke in Pennsylvania on behalf of William B. Wilson, the Democratic senatorial candidate, because of alleged excessive campaign expenditures by the Republicans, declared here that Senator Vare, although technically elected, had been repudiated by the "honest patriotic people" of the State and that the Philadelphia "machine" had functioned as usual, the results in some precincts having been announced before any votes were cast.

Meanwhile the committee of seventy, an unofficial body in Philadelphia, was preparing to make an investigation in a number of Philadelphia precincts where Mr. Wilson was not credited with a single vote.

Discussion of the Pennsylvania situation is expected to be renewed here Wednesday, when the Senate reconvenes as a court of impeachment to try George W. English Federal judge for the eastern district of Illinois, on charges of usurpation of power and other high misdemeanors.

Belated and scattering returns overnight failed to change the party lineup in the Seventieth house.

Dorothy Gish for 'Madame Pompadour'

By LOUELLA PARSONS,
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor.

NEW YORK, NOV. 5.—SOME MONTHS AGO I GROANED IN PRINT at the companies who sought publicity by announcing a Romeo and Juliet production. Among those at that time who let it be known they were considering this Shakespearian love story was Universal.

A rumor again is revived, and this time with enough authenticity so that I can state the filming of Romeo and Juliet is no idle gossip. Mary Philbin will play Juliet.

NEW YORK IS INTERESTED IN THE FILM VERSION of the Eucharistic Congress which took place at Chicago a few months ago. It opens at the Jolson Theatre for a limited engagement for two weeks.

Over a million people attended this congress for a stay of only ten hours in the town of Mundelein, named after His Eminence George Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago, and sponsor of the congress.

The motion picture was made for him to preserve in celluloid this manifestation of his flock in the Catholic church. Other scenes of the congress are in this picture which are highly dramatic from the standpoint of devotion and religious reverence.

MARY MILES MINTER was very secretive about her trip abroad. She sailed under the name of Juliette Reilly, hoping to avoid detection. Miss Minter has had so much publicity that, unlike most of the film actresses, she runs a mile when she sees anything that looks like a newspaper reporter.

I happen to know, however, that there was an additional reason for Miss Minter's silence. She has had an offer from an Italian company to play in a foreign production. Her return to the screen is in the way of an experiment and she is wise enough to wish to say nothing until she sees whether or not she can come back.

Poor Mary Miles Minter. A few years ago one of the most talked of actresses on the screen. Today a disillusioned young woman, unfriendly with her own mother and alone in her battle with the world.

LONDON MAY BE COLD TO THE REST OF THE WORLD, but not to J. D. Williams. Mr. Williams went abroad, obtained a bankroll from some of the most conservative British financiers and is now arranging to continue making pictures in England.

He tells me he has a modern studio that defies the most persistent fog and will produce photography that looks as if it had been developed under California skies. He is only staying here a few weeks, returning to London in time to supervise Dorothy Gish in "Madame Pompadour."

If he succeeds in making some British pictures that are good, England may offer to let him share the throne with King George. It ought to be worth that much to them.

Dorothy Gish

ABOUT EIGHT YEARS AGO a fluffy-haired little girl romped about the World studios the pet of every actress and director in the company. I have a vivid recollection of this same child playing in Harley Knowles' productions, supervised by William A. Brady.

At that time, not only Mr. Brady, but his daughter, Alice, were a big part of this film producing company which turned out thrillers by the yard. Last week I had occasion to visit the 48th Street theatre to see the play "Daisy Mayne." A young girl of seventeen with fluffy hair, unusually pretty, attracted my attention.

I looked at my program and discovered it was Madge Evans, the child actress of the World Film Company. So often these children of the screen pass out of existence and are not heard of after they reach maturity.

BODIES IN MINE ARE BURIED IN SAND

Ishpeming, Mich., Nov. 5 (A.P.)—The honeycombed workings of a number of abandoned iron mines today were lending a helping hand to the men engaged in the difficult work of recovering the remaining 44 bodies of the miners entrapped in the cave-in at the Barnes-Hecker mine here Wednesday.

The seeming impossibility of the task of ever clearing the flooded pit took on a more encouraging aspect late last night when the water which filled the shaft began receding of its own accord. Mine engineers expressed the opinion that the water had broken through to underground caverns of adjacent worked-out mines.

But even with this unforseen aid the task of recovery remains a most difficult one. As the water receded it was revealed that the main shaft had been stripped of all its bracings by the rush of water and sand and was partially filled with timber and other wreckage.

New bracing apparatus must be constructed to prevent slides and a new elevator installed before the men can penetrate to the first level. Soundings have revealed that this level is clogged with sand, and at an entry a mile into it the workers must dig out any bodies that may be buried there.

This will consume weeks or months, officials of the mine fear.

Summer Bachelors
A Frankly Revealing Serial of Boston Night Life
By WARNER FABIAN

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Derry Thomas, an attractive business girl, while shopping, permits Tony Landor, a young man whose name she has overheard but whom she does not know, pay for a dress fabric she cannot afford. He leaves her without learning her name. Mr. Ostrander, her employer, has her promise not to marry for three years. Derry goes autoing with Beverly Greenway. He admits he is a Summer bachelor. They meet Preston Smith, a Boston politician, at a North Shore club, and then go to a Boston night club. There Derry dances with several attractive men. Martin Cole calls at her office. Derry meets Willowdean French, an old friend. The latter dines with Professor Blakely, another Summer bachelor. Beverly goes away. Derry misses him. She meets Tony Landor unexpectedly.

CHAPTER XIII

"WHAT'S the idea?" demanded Martin Cole crossly as Willowdean and Derry seated themselves. "You're an hour late."

"Been out for an airing? Don't peeve, Mart. It went well tonight, didn't it?"

"It's going to be a knockout," predicted Bartram.

"If it is, I'll give a party that you can smell the smoke of for a week afterward."

"Give it anyway. To drown our grief if it's a flop. Mart's roof garden," explained Willowdean to the others. "Is the high spot of life in Boston.

"High but far from dry," added little Sara McIntyre. "The honorable Councilor," she turned to Smith, "will set us a special dispensation to disturb the peace all night, won't you old dear?"

"One of my emoluments as a City Father is the ability to keep my friends out of trouble. I can also get 'em into it, being authorized to perform marriages. Any time you want to get married, come to me."

"If you're joking at me, Prenny dear," twinkled Derry. "I'd like to know whether that's a proposal. Never mind. You're safe from me even if you weren't married. I love you too well, Prenny-ancel, to be your Mrs. Councilor."

"It's very refreshing, Derry," said Martin Cole, "to hear one of you women expressing regard for the safe-

DEAF AND BLIND TO BE AIDED

Entering the second century of its service to the afflicted the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Charles street, West End, an institution of its kind unsurpassed in America, today looked hopefully to public-spirited citizens for success in its centennial drive for $1,500,000.

Enthusiastic about the promise of better equipment and facilities as the little tots at the infirmary, afflicted in one way or another and some of them blind, to whom the "Eye and Ear" means hope for a happy life.

With a banquet to 100 prominent men, including Governor Fuller and President Lowell of Harvard, the drive for $1,500,000 was launched at the Algonquin Club. The fund will constitute an endowment to increase the income of the institution which receives no support from the State.

An average of 396 patients are treated daily at the Eye and Ear Infirmary, the latest report showing 8,437 house patients in a year and 75,917 out-patient visitors.

WARN OF RATS AND PLAGUE IN ALLEY LITTER

Spurred by a recital of conditions in the public alleys of Boston's Back Bay district, prominent Hub bacteriologists and experts in contagious diseases today declared that city alleys, heaped with refuse, were the most prolific sources of disease germs and warned Boston to clean up the dangerous places.

"Litter heaps and piles of refuse too commonly found in alleys about Boston offer a harbor and breeding place for rodents and flies which are considered common carriers of various diseases," said Dr. David Belding, instructor in bacteriology at Boston University School of Medicine and director of pathology at Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital.

"The direct source of the bubonic plague which made such disastrous inroads in the vicinity of our South ern ports was rats. The rodent becomes infected in a foreign port and immediately upon reaching this country leaves the ship in search for food. Too often they find food in alleys where they stay and spread the disease. Being a port, Boston must use every care."

Dr. Maxwell Baker, through whose offices thousands of children pass yearly is one of the largest American child clinics, declared: "In my personal contact with children suffering from many diseases I have formed the opinion that the greatest number of infections can be traced directly to filth, in particular that of alleyways."

"Few persons outside the medical profession realize the danger lurking in alley waste and refuse," said Dr. Lee Suton, superintendent of the South Department, Boston City Hospital, and charged with the care of contagious cases.

"Cleanliness in the matter of clearing litter and refuse from alleys is the best preventive within popular reach today," said Dr. Lyman Munroe, prominent physician. "Where children, and adults as well, live in dwellings of the present city type, with their inadequate supply of the 'out-of-doors,' cleanliness in alleys is essential to health."

New Ambassador to Brazil

Tokyo, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Akira Ariyoshi, now minister to Switzerland from Japan, has been chosen for the post of ambassador to Brazil, succeeding Ambassador Tatsuki, who is at present in Tokio. The Cabinet will make the official announcement of the appointment soon.

'GIN JAGS' ARE REVEALED BY FAIR CO-ED

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 5.—"I'm just sick of dozens. There are many ugly marriages like mine at the university of Illinois. Many other girls are dashed up without marriage. Many a girl leaves school in the middle of a semester, because she has to."

Mrs. Frances May Prowdley Helfrick, whose career at the University of Illinois was cut short by marriage and motherhood, sat in Attorney Charles E. Erbstein's office today and sadly told the story of her "higher education."

A pretty girl, clear skinned, clear eyed, told of life at the State university as she had seen it. She told it reluctantly, carefully, and with a naivete about some phases of campus life that would have brought a smile to the average college youth of today.

Her husband, Murray Denzel Helfrick, son of wealthy parents of Chicago Heights, is a senior at the university this year, and she is suing him to obtain separate maintenance to provide for her and for the child which was born six months after their marriage.

"I was brought up carefully at home," the girl wife said. "Thank Heaven, my mother is old-fashioned. She is horrified at the stories about the University.

"I met Murray in a chemistry laboratory course. We were never introduced, but he helped me with some of my experiments and finally asked me for a date.

Mrs. Helfrick then explained the classifications of co-eds at the University of Illinois, which institution she said was "snob ridden."

There are, she explained, classes of co-eds, as follows:

1—Sorority girls, who will go out with none but fraternity men.

2—Non-sorority girls, who go out with fraternity men.

3—Non-sorority girls, who would like to go out with fraternity men if they could.

"I was a non-sorority girl," she said, "and I was envied by the other girls because I, a freshman, went out with a fraternity man.

"Murray took me out to a lot of dances and parties. He drank a lot, but I didn't drink then and I don't now. He always had liquor. I don't know where he got it, although I know about one man down there whose diploma was withheld by the university because it was discovered that he had been taking pure alcohol from the medical laboratories and making gin for the rest of the fellows.

"The real 'gin parties' though, were staged by the boys without the knowledge of the university. They would drive out in their cars some place far in the country, with girls and lots of liquor. Then they would drink and have petting parties in the automobiles.

"I went on one of these with Murray, but I never went on another. However, it was after he had come in from one of these parties that our romance grew more serious."

Dry Agents Probing Rum Traffic In Illinois Colleges

Chicago, Nov. 5 (A. P.).—Following an announcement that 12 University of Illinois students had been expelled for drinking, gambling and using automobiles, a story was published today by the Herald and Examiner that prohibition agents were investigating the sale of liquor to students at colleges in Chicago territory.

Prohibition officials declined to discuss the subject, but the newspaper said women dry agents were reported working under cover at the University of Wisconsin, University of Illinois and other schools.

CALIFORNIA "DRY" VICTORY CLINCHED IN LOS ANGELES

San Francisco, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—A blast of early returns from Los Angeles, prohibition stronghold of California, buried the proposal to repeal the State liquor law, under a majority of more than 65,000 votes with only 429 precincts missing, the vote stood: For repeal, 491,886; against, 547,046. The missing districts are regarded as dry.

The Los Angeles vote, comprising 2,484 precincts, or nearly one-third of the voting places of the State, delivered a smashing 67,000 majority in favor of retention of the liquor law. The vote was 144,635 to 211,-623. This wiped out the generous war leed from the other districts of the State, which at one time was 101,-000.

SEEK GIRL IN PROBE OF FATAL RIOT IN TOMBS

New York, Nov. 5 (I.N.S.).—While five official investigations were underway today to fix responsibility for the jail delivery attempt at the Tombs Prison on Wednesday, detectives were seeking a blonde girl who visited Hyman Amberg, one of the prisoners who was killed, a few minutes before the attempted break. Investigators were probing reports that several keepers were involved in the escape. Amberg and two other convicts, a warden and a keeper were killed in the attempted

REOPEN PARLEY TO SETTLE BRITISH COAL STRIKE

HUB MERCHANT HONORED BY FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hawkins were welcomed home from Europe at a testimonial dinner tendered in the Recreational Centre of the Jordan-Marsh Company. Mr. Hawkins is a director of the company.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins recently returned from an extended tour and their friends in the store gave them the dinner as a mark of esteem.

As an entertainment program consisted of selections by the Jordan Marsh Company Store Band under the direction of Allan H. Southard.

GUESTS AT DINNER.

Seated at the head table with Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins were these guests: President George W. Milton of the Jordan-Marsh Company, and Mrs. Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Milton, Mr. Edward Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Burnelle G. Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred S. Tufts, Mr. Maurice Wrigley.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Eddy, Mr. Adolph Ehrlich, president of the C. F. Hovey Company; Mr. Richard Ehrlich, Mr. Daniel E. Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Denis A. McCarthy, Mr. Walter M. Stone of the C. F. Hovey Company, Mr. Frank Hawkins, brother of Mr. W. A. Hawkins, a special guest.

The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of the following: Mrs. Catherine Creighton, chairman; Miss E. Florence Nolan, Miss Nan Hallett, Miss Sadie G. McNulty, Mrs. Mary McCarthy, Mr. James Hines, Mr. James Evans, Mr. William Parr.

Miss Helen C. Corkery, Mrs. Mattie Murphy, Miss Clara Carroll, Mr. Call, Mr. W. J. McNally, Mr. John McCaffigan, Mr. Frank Merrell, Mr. Malcolm Green, Mr. A. E. Flinn, Mr. Frederick P. Stearns, Mr. John Killion, Miss Marie Stewart and Miss Minnie Blagdon.

DESCRIBES EXPERIENCES.

Mr. Hawking gave an interesting address on his European experiences, while Mr. G. W. Milton, president of the store, extended a few words of welcome to the guests of honor.

An impromptu reception was held afterwards in the adjoining assembly hall, at which all guests had the opportunity to personally meet Mr. and Mrs. George W. Milton and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hawkins.

Mr. Denis McCarthy, an old friend of Mr. Hawkins, read an original poem composed especially for the occasion and dedicated to Mr. Hawkins.

The Truth About Mexico, as Pictured By Official

By B. C. FORBES

IN THE SOUTH—No. 1—Comes the cheering announcement that Mexico has sent funds for payment of the current half-year's Mexican bond interest to the International Committee of Bankers.

The newspapers have published much tending to represent Mexico as in a deplorable state. I have just had a talk with Mr. Carrillo, consul-general of Mexico with headquarters in Texas. He presents a very different picture and supplies supporting facts and figures.

I have known Mr. Carrillo for quite some time and he deservedly enjoys the respect and confidence of the south.

Our commercial and industrial relationship with Mexico are so important that his statements cannot but possess interest for every part of the United States.

What does he say?

"MEXICO is to pay her debts, her debts to Mexican merchants as well as her foreign debts. The Bank of Mexico, with a capital of $50,000,000, the only one authorized to issue paper money, is contributing invaluably to our practical progress. The agricultural loan banks, recently established, are cooperating effectively.

"Extensive irrigation works are being completed and the government has appropriated $20,000,000 for such work. Mexico's railroads now cover 14,000 miles and concessions for the construction of new railroads have been granted.

"The Mexican army has been reduced by half. Thousands of government employes have been eliminated.

"MEXICO NOW has 118 sugar mills and refineries, 139 cotton textile factories, 36 woolen mills, 75 big shoe factories, 333 large cigar and cigarette factories, 69 hydro-electric plants, 34 important paper mills, 15 steel and iron foundries, including one employing more than 2000.

"Soap factories are increasing rapidly. One, not the best, was sold a few months ago for $4,000,000.

"Exports and imports between Mexico and the United States have shown substantial increases during recent years.

"NEXT TO the United States, Mexico is the largest oil producing country in the world. From 1916 to 1926 the average has reached the stupendous figure of 115,712,443 barrels annually. Total production has exceeded 1,350,000,000 barrels.

"This industry is just beginning. Lately new oil regions have been discovered far from the oil fields. A number of new companies have started exploration and development in these new fields.

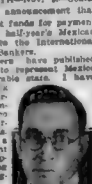
"IN 1910, when the old regime had apparently reached its zenith, the public schools in the federal and rural districts numbered 641. Last year the schools conducted by the federal government in the federal district alone numbered 700, and there were more than 9000 schools in the rural districts, not counting the State and city schools."



B. C. Forbes

WHAT OF the future? Says Mr Carillo:

"As Mexico is practically a new country commercially and industrially speaking there are to be found magnificent opportunities for business and enterprising men prepared to invest their capital to good advantage. The government will afford every possible facility to all well-meaning investors.

"For example, I believe that thread manufacturing will permit big returns. We imported from Scotland over $2,000,000 worth in addition to large imports from the United States. The rubber industry is another very promising field. Mining in Mexico is big. Incipiency, stock-raising, poultry and hog-raising offer strong advantages.

"THE UNITED STATES should continue, in my opinion, to cultivate commerce with Mexico, especially as Europe is commercially rehabilitating herself and getting ready to do so. I would urge American merchants and manufacturers to lend every possible facility for credit to Mexican merchants enjoying high reputation. The importance of the Mexican trade is bound to increase as business becomes more stabilized.

"Let us be brotherly. If we all are actuated by a spirit of sincerity and mutual understanding, our two countries are bound to reap great benefits."

U. S. ESTIMATE ON COTTON IS ATTACKED

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Herbert Janvrin Browne of Washington and Cambridge, prominent meteorologist, is one of the investigators who charges the government figures of October 8, forecasting a crop of 16,627,000 bales, is too high. The total crop thus forecast, Mr. Browne says, is from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bales in excess of the quantity of cotton that will be ginned. The shrinkage, Mr. Browne asserts, can be attributed to an overestimate of crop and condition, adverse weather conditions before and after the estimate, and inability to pick and gin the yield.

The government's subsequent estimate, issued October 25 and forecasting a crop of more than 17,600,000 bales, simply increases the margin of error in the view of this forecaster.

J. A. Oliver of New York, another private forecaster, thus sums up the situation: "Hundreds of thousands of bales of cotton, not included in the government's forecast, will never pass through the gins. In addition, there is a big percentage of heavy rains and early frosts reducing the crop. The recent crash went too far. Soon this will be generally recognized."

A 1,500,000 or 2,000,000 bale difference in the size of the crop, spreading its fleecy mantle over India, Egypt, the Gulf States and Carolina hills, spells the difference between a prosperous year and a poor one.

W. R. MacColl

President William R. MacColl of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers credits the South with originating the Cotton Conservation Institute as "one of the great and constructive movements ever attempted by the cotton textile industry." He points out that: "Today almost 19,000,000 spindles are operating, and 7,000,000 spindles have signed the three-year participation agreement. Another number of 2,500,000 spindles are from the North and the balance from the South. It is to be regretted that a larger percentage from New England has not as yet seen fit to join the movement.

Cleveland Press says Frank A. Seiberling, president of the Seiberling Tire & Rubber Co., is expected to regain control of the Seiberling & Rubber Co. before March 1, next. Mr. Seiberling was ousted from the Goodyear concern when, it is said, what reorganization followed the company's war reconstruction period difficulties, which Mr. Seib berly owned in Reston. Mr. Seiberling is known as "the Little Napoleon" of the tire industry. He built up the Goodyear concern from an initial investment of $12,500 to a $130,000,000 industry. Court actions are the apparent basis for the Cleveland forecast.

"The road to hell is half blocked by men who were deaf and dumb particularly during business opportunity knocked at their doors," said the Old State Street Trader.

We have previously mentioned that the Bay State produces more than half the total cranberry crop of the world. With the annual cranberry fair getting under way in Boston, still more facts may prove interesting. Principal sections raising cranberries are Cape Cod, Pine Barren region of New Jersey and Wisconsin. Initial attempts to cultivate the cranberry were made at North Dennis in the first fifth of the 19th century, but with little success. It was 1880 before sufficient facts were known to produce a crop successfully.

• • •

It takes money to develop a cranberry property. From $800 to $1800 an acre has been needed in the past. The fruit demands a solid peat soil. Neither alkaline peat nor ordinary farm and garden soils will grow cranberries. In Massachusetts and New Jersey the name bog is commonly applied to cranberry areas, though small plots are also known as yards. In Wisconsin marsh is used instead of bog. The U. S. Department of Agriculture is seeking to have the term "cranberry field" cast all these other names.

BOSTON & MAINE'S EARNINGS RUN HIGH

For 1926 Boston & Maine is likely to report net income for 1926 of $4,500,000 to $7,000,000. This would compare with $5,468,905 in 1925. No previous year is recorded in which net income has been so large, although it should be remembered that prior to the 1920 reorganization rentals for seven leased lines constituted a fixed charge deductible before net income was arrived at, afterward becoming a contingent charge as dividends on first preferred stock.

EXPECTED REACTION IN FRENCH FRANC RECORDED

Paris, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—An increase of 1,500,000,000 francs in the circulation, effected with some regret by the speculato rs, today produced the expected reaction in the French exchange. The dollar and the pound sterling opened higher and remained strong throughout the Bourse session, closing respectively at 30.32 francs and 146.30.

In the opinion of the experts, the franc has probably reached its high water mark and will recede a little, to be eventually stabilized between 33 and 35 to the dollar and 160 and 175 to the pound.

A median point between those figures is recarded in financial circles as reasonable from an economic standpoint

MORE COMPANIES WILL MAKE REPORT QUARTERLY

Large number of corporations whose shares are listed on the New York Stock Exchange have acquiesced in suggestion of President Hoover that more frequent financial statements be published for information of stockholders. In response to pleas which President Simmons made May 28, in letter addressed to 877 companies whose securities are traded in, 419 replies have been received. Said that considerably more than 100 companies, which heretofore have confined themselves to yearly or half-yearly reports, have agreed to report quarterly results.

ST. PAUL FIGHT IS TO REACH SUPREME COURT

Edwin C. Jameson, head of bondholders' defense committee, representing bondholders opposed to Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul reorganization plan, announced he would carry committee's contest to U. S. Supreme court. Committee endeavoring to have terms of plan changed so it may be afforded better opportunity to bid on Eastern portion of property. Jamerson's petition to intervene was denied by Federal District court, Chicago, and Circuit Court of Appeals, leaving U. S. Supreme court as last resort.

NARRAGANSETT MERGER HAS NEW OPPOSITION

Harvey A. Baker, representative of mayor of Providence on board of directors of United Electric Railways Co., issued statement declaring that he is opposed to plan for merging the trolley company as the Narragansett Electric Railways Co. and that he did not approve the sending of a communication to the stockholders of the company advocating acceptance of the Rhode Island Public Service Co. offer put out by the United Electric directors Wednesday.

FORE RIVER WANTS TO BID FOR CRUISER WORK

Representatives of four leading shipbuilding companies expressed to Secretary of Navy Wilbur desire to bid competitively for construction of three cruisers for which an appropriation was granted by last Congress. Companies represented were Newport News Shipbuilding Co., William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Co., Fore River plant of Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp., and American Brown Boveri Co.

OLD TIME AIRS ARE BROADCAST

The radio audience is being given a real treat afternoons this week and next, in the concerts being broadcast by the Crinoline girls from the Houghton & Dutton studio of WEEI as a part of the 54th anniversary celebration of this Boston department store.

Through the glass walls of the studio, on the sixth floor of the store, the crowd which visits the studio every afternoon is also given a fascinating picture of Yesteryear, for the Crinoline girls are dressed in the picturesque fashions of former days.

Their programs consist of music popular in the seventies as well as selections from the light operas and semi-classical compositions.

Friday evening, at 8.00 o'clock, Houghton and Dutton Company will be on the air with a Special Anniversary program entitled "Echoes from Yesteryear."

WEEI PROGRAM ON EDUCATION

The American Education Week Committee, cooperating with WEEI, will broadcast a special address each day during Education Week. These talks will be by widely known workers and educators and approved by the Massachusetts Department of Education. Education Week is being held at the same time in all the year when the entire nation is called upon to dedicate itself anew to the great task of universal education.

The first talk in this series will be Sunday at 3.45 and the speaker will be Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University. Monday the speaker will be the Hon. Jay P. Benton, Attorney General of the State. Tuesday in all probability General Logan will speak.

Wednesday Mary McSkimmon will talk and Thursday Commander McGinnis of the American Legion. On Friday Dr. Henry W. Holmes, Dean of the Graduate School of Education at the Harvard University will speak and Saturday Joseph Lee, former member of the Boston School Committee and the president of the Community Service Organization will be the speaker.

WHOZIT CONTEST WILL BE KNOWN SATURDAY

The secret is to be let out of the bag Saturday night at 7:45 p. m.

There will be no more wondering, for the Whozit Contest, which has been announced from Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores is to be an open book from now on.

This game between the breadcasting artists and the listeners, with the artists as leading characters, is to be unfolded and it's going to be a lot of fun from now on.

Saturday night everyone will know all about it. Will know exactly how the thousands of dollars in prizes are to be divided, know the rules, and the plan behind the contest.

Persson Hurt, Bout With McCarthy Off

By JACK [illegible]WAY

HARRY PERSSON, Swedish heavyweight, has stepped out of his bout with Pat McCarthy, booked for Hartford for Monday night, on the claim of an injured thumb. Persson says he suffered his injury in his recent tussle with Bud Gorman, which he lost on a foul.

The Hartford promoters will make an effort to stage this bout at a later date.

Persson's mishap was a severe disappointment to McCarthy, who had gone to Hartford after conditioning himself in this city. Pat was in the best of shape and confident he would win over Persson and thus get into the select company in the heavyweight class.

HONEYBOY FINNEGAN made a hurried trip to Boston from his training camp at Wilmington to have his injured eye treated. The optic is badly discolored, but it is expected to be as good as ever by the first of the week. Meanwhile, Finner, a going through his regular training program other than boxing.

Dan Carroll Flanegan's manager, denies the report the Dorchester boxer is having any trouble reducing to 126 pounds for his world's title battle with Chick Suggs, which will be staged at the New Boston Arena a week from Monday night. Carroll points to the fact that Finnegan weighed 128 pounds last Tuesday when he stepped on the scales at Wamsutta in the presence of his trainers, a Boston newspaperman and a few others. Six days, says Carroll, would have been ample time to have taken off the three extra pounds.

JUDGING by the way Al Mello, Lowell welterweight, works in the gym he will not carry any ill effects from his recent operation for appendicitis when he goes into action in the ring again. Mello has been working out at Kelley & Hayes' Gym and has been showing the same kind of flat'e fire that enabled him to punch his way out front in the welterweight class.

Mello's program calls for one or two tryout bouts and then a return engagement with Jack Zivic. If Al comes through successfully, he will be prepared to make a bid to win back his title as New England welterweight champion from George (Kid) Lee.

JOHNNY MEYERS RETAINS HIS WRESTLING LAURELS

Chicago, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Johnny Meyers of Chicago retained his title as middleweight champion of the world when he defeated Joe Parelli of Chicago two falls in three. Meyers won the first fall in 36 minutes 45 seconds with a combination hammerlock and double wristlock. Parelli won the second in 12 minutes and 24 seconds with a reverse body scissors and Meyers took the third in 8 minutes and 35 seconds with a combination double Nelson and wristlock.

OTTAWA SENATORS BUY ANOTHER HOCKEY STAR

A report from Toronto discloses that Jack Adams, for many seasons a star with the St. Patricks in the National Hockey League, has been sold to the Ottawa Senators. The sum involved was not disclosed.

Semi-Pro Twin Bill

Four teams will be seen in action Sunday afternoon at Orient Heights Park. Three of the teams are from East Boston and the fans will now an opportunity to compare them. St. Lazarus A. C. will meet the Roslindale Rovers while St. Joseph A. A. will play the Airports.

ART ROSS TO PUT ALL-STAR SIX ON ICE

By BILL GRIMES

Within a week, Manager Art Ross will be ready for the start of the National Hockey League season. The Bruins will open with Lee Cana diens one week from Tuesday night at the Arena.

Bill Grimes

Art Ross has gathered one of the greatest all star aggregations in the N. H. L. He is carrying fifteen players. They are all seasoned in fast company. There are six new comers on the Bruins roster. Each and everyone of these new players come here with a great reputation behind them. Art Ross struggled along with a fair first team and an army of mediocre subs. The first year that the Bruins joined the N. H. L. they got nowhere. They did not have the class to pull themselves out of the cellar. Last year due in the main to Capt. Sprenis Cleghorn, the Bruins were the talk of the hockey world because of the sensational drive from last place to the thick of the fight for the championship. It was the absence of first class replacements, along with an injury, which forced Cleghorn out of the game for seven weeks, that robbed the Bruins of an opportunity of getting in for the big play off money.

Now Boston has a star aggregation. There is not an apparent weakness on the Bruins. Manager Ross has three forward lines, two pair of outer defense players and a couple of goal tenders.

Now that Ross has brought together a real team, he has put the Buck right up to himself. On each team, a successful manager must be a diplomat at times. With an all-star aggregation diplomacy must be exercised by those in charge at all times. The slightest slip may spell failure for the season

Stage Stars in Midnight Show to Aid 'Matty's Memorial

THE Christy Mathewson Memorial performance will be given at The Metropolitan Theatre at midnight, tonight.

Al Jolson, De Wolf Hopper, Madge Kennedy, Sydney Blackmer Beverly Sayres, Gregory Kelly and Joe Allen will head an all star bill.

Tickets may be purchased at the Metropolitan Theatre, Herrick's, The Copley-Plaza, The Touraine, Adams House, Hotel Partridge, the Suffolk A. C. and Braves Field. All tickets are reserved and cost $1.00 each.

PANTHERS WILL REMAIN IN PRO LEAGUE

Cleveland, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—The Cleveland American League professional football team will remain in the circuit and complete their 1926 schedule, President Edwards of the league announced today following conferences here. Edwards came to Cleveland to untangle the financial difficulties of the club. He said a new financial backer had been found for the club. The Panthers are scheduled to meet Philadelphia Saturday. Dave Noble and Al Nesser have resigned from the club, but other regulars of the team will be in the lineup.

Boston-Cleveland Tilt Will Be Played Sunday

The reorganization of the Cleveland Panthers following the visit to that city of President Edwards of the American Professional Football League, straightens out the tangle from the Boston end. The local Bulldogs, who journeyed to Cleveland for Sunday's scheduled contest, were fearful that their trip was to prove fruitless.

President Edwards, having settled the difficulty, the game will be played as slated. Two Panther regulars will be missing from the lineup.

AMHERST IN SHAPE FOR BIG CONTEST

Amherst, Mass., Nov. 5.—Coach White used the Amherst College freshmen eleven against his varsity charges this afternoon in the last hard workout before the Union game. The first year team played both of the varsity units with the heavier aggregations having no strong an offensive to keep the practice game even.

The team is showing more fight than it did last week and the Saurina eleven is expecting to defeat the New Yorkers who turned back Williams last week. The Amherst coach undoubtedly will use the regular line-up in the next two games, barring injuries this week, with Bigelow now definitely placed at tackle and Nelson and Baldwin in reserve for the position.

PAT DOUGHERTY RECOVERS FROM SURGICAL OPERATION

Buffalo, Nov. 5 (I.N.S.).—Pat Dougherty, once famous as an outfielder and star hitter with Fielder Jones' champion Chicago White Sox, was reported "doing nicely" today, following an operation for abdominal trouble on Wednesday.

The operation was declared to be a serious one but the old-time ball player rallied from its affects yesterday and was said to be on the mend today. He is 52 years old and a banker of Bolivar, N. Y.

B. U. SQUAD OFF FOR HANOVER THIS P. M.

By MAURICE KRAMER

Boston University football team will leave for Hanover, N. H., this afternoon, to look horns with Dartmouth tomorrow. This will be the fourth time this fall that the "Terriers" have dreamed Massachusetts for the week end.

The last scrimmages determined the men that will take the trip. Neither team scored during daylight and Reggie Brown ordered play to continue until one or the other made a touchdown. The white washed ball was brought out and the two elevens went at it hot and heavy for another hour until the first team finally pushed over a score.

In an eleventh hour shift, Solly Thurman, was put at halfback and "Dumpy" Hurley was sent down to the second team.

The starting team will be Dorfman, center; Dinelo and French, guards; Swenson and Freeman, tackles; Carnie and Jerome, ends; Roberts, quarter; MacDonald and Thurman halfbacks and Weiner fullback. The other men that will make the trip are O'Brien, Jenkins, Halliday, Tripp, Poole, Thuren, Lee, Marshall, Shaffert Dorr, Brittain, Keyes, Hoag, Soltzer and Smith.

Leon High Coach Has Novel Training Rule

By EDDIE DONDERO.

DEPARTING from the usual procedure of preparing gridiron gladiators on the eve of an intersectional schoolboy classic, Coach G. H. Elder of Leon High School, Tallahassee, Fla., has prohibited his cohorts to read anything about the strength of the Salem High eleven previous to the gruelling struggle with the Witches at Bertram Field tomorrow afternoon.

"In the South over-confidence and very near knocking us off the peak," said the coach. "The players were warned soundly, but scribes continued to praise our overhead attack and individual stars, while a nonchalating our opponents and the game fell for it.

"I'd rather have my team play a game every day in the week than read those press agent articles. They get so that their headgear grow too small for them."

Elder added that the right sort of publicity during the fall time was a benefit but claimed that Southern newspapermen overdid things.

Eddie Dondero

"Win! Sure we will," commented pretty Miss Edna Mae Jones, 'Miss Florida,' who accompanied the team, Mrs. Opal Churchill, chaperon of the party, was also very optimistic, predicting that the margin of victory would be greater than two touchdowns.

The Crimson invaders did not participate in any morning gridiron practice, but other diversions such as a two-mile hike and a sightseeing excursion gave them few idle moments. The squad prepared at Bertram Field in strict secrecy shortly after dinner, Coach Elder drilling his athletes with a water-soaked ball.

After a two-hour session of vigorous training there the Leon team returned to the Hotel Hawthorne for skulls practice. This permitted William (Bill) Frederick's Salem realme to conclude his conditioning program.

IF YOU HAVE AN ACHE OR PAIN LET THIS EXPERT HELP YOU

HE LOOKS AFTER WALTER JOHNSON, COVELESKIE AND OTHERS OF WASHINGTON BALL TEAM

For Twenty Years He's Been Relieving Lame Back, Sore, Stiff Muscles, Swollen Joints, Sprains, Achy Feet, Rheumatic Pains and Kindred Ills of Big League Athletes

Greatest Expert Living On Keeping Athletes in Perfect Condition

TRY HIS METHOD ON YOUR ACHES OR PAINS

We want to introduce the reader to Mike Martin, who probably knows more about keeping a person in fighting condition than anyone else living. For 20 years, at various universities and with the New York Yankees, Cincinnati Reds and now as trainer of the Washington Ball Club, Mike Martin has won fame as a lightning quick, fuss, of, sprains, pains, aches, etc.

Mike Martin is a genius. He can take men claimed to be too old, stiff or rheumatic to play baseball at all and make them as frisky, vigorous, supple and quick as a boy. Mike Martin knows his business — ask Walter Johnson, Coveleskie, Ty Cobb, Pennock, Mostil, or any of the big stars. They know.

HE CAN HELP YOU

Mike Martin has had a little folder printed telling how he quickly banishes stiff swollen joints, achy limb backs or feet, rheumatic pains, etc. He has arranged with leading druggists here in Boston to get you complimentary bottles of the liniment they use at the ball park. He has made it a hard time for his own men. Athletes on other teams kid Mike now making his "Mike Martin Liniment Treatment" jokes, but when they get a sore muscle all over them."

Eller added that the right sort of publicity during the fall time was a benefit but claimed that

him to get it. There is no ache Mike can't relieve like it. It works like greased lightning. Scores of trainers of famous baseball leagues athletes or points, get it as mild it can be used on a baby's skin. Mike Martin's liniment is unquestionably the most effective quick, sure, quick Relief remedy made. Big league players couldn't afford to fool with weaker slower remedies. No one else should.

If your druggist has some remedy of his own he offers in substitute write Mike Martin, Trainer, Ball Park, Washington, D. C. Mr. Martin will then announce bottle of liniment or $1 for large, four ounce bottle.

Treat Picks Tigers to Defeat Harvard by Score of 17-10

By HERB TREAT

The Harvard-Princeton game tops the list for tomorrow, and although both teams have met defeat, there is the usual interest surrounding the classic.

Very few if any set-ups will be played so we cannot overlook these other conflicts even though our attention is chiefly attracted to the Stadium struggle.

Boston College meets a worthy foe in Villanova. Fordham will give Holy Cross plenty of trouble while the Syracuse-Georgetown game won't be over till the final whistle—also Penn and Penn State will be a hard-fought game, and the winner will have to be on the ball the entire route.

It's not an easy task for tomorrow, but here's the way they look to me:

HARVARD-PRINCETON (1925, P. 36, H. 0)

Both the Tigers and the Crimson will fly at each other seeking to get the jump, and to the team that does it will mean much in deciding the game. That is too uncertain and we can't tell which team will be successful. It will be a struggle to hold on to the ball. Both teams will gamble on fourth down in an effort to keep it in possession. Princeton's line has a weak spot and Harvard's backfield has plenty of power and drive. Princeton, offensively, has a fine deceptive aerial attack, and the Crimson has never been strong on forward pass defence. This is reason enough why there should be a struggle to retain possession of the ball.

THE LINES

Centre—Gamache has a slight edge on Bartell, the Princeton pivot.

Guards—Kilgour and Simonds of Harvard will be fighting neck and neck with Captain Davis and Bill Baldwin for honors.

Tackles—Princeton has Darby, Rosengarten and French to pitt against Captain Coen Cody, Pratt and Linder. In this position, too, it looks to be very close, and if one pair gives an inch the team, for a team is as strong as its tackles. Bob Darby will be a bulwark of strength down the field.

Ends—Harvard's pair will be just about equal to the Tigers' wingmen. Pop Strong well deserves the right to start the game for Harvard and will live up to his name.

Taking all the positions into consideration, Harvard has a slight edge in the line, but that margin of difference might be wiped out if Princeton gets the jump.

THE BACKFIELDS

At quarterback, Dan Caulkins, the Tiger signal caller, has a distinct edge on Elliot Putnam. Caulkins has all that Putnam has, plus experience, and also more speed and weight.

The other backs are, for Harvard, Miller, Sayles, French, Guarnaccia, Chauncey and Stafford; for Princeton, Slagle, Niles, Baruch, Prendegast, Ewing and Williams.

Harvard Backs Most Powerful

Harvard's set has more power, Princeton's has more speed and experience. The Crimson has not a back who can run deceptively like Eagle, Prendegast or Williams. Niles is said to be powerful enough to stage an attack through the line.

The backfields are pretty close when it comes to choose the better of the two, but I like the Tiger set because of their big game experience and also because speed counts more than power in the modern game.

To defeat Princeton, Harvard has to be a 25 per cent stronger team in order to overcome the psychological advantage of the Tigers. This statement, although not logical, seems to be true considering meetings of the two institutions. Harvard is not better than Princeton, the teams are evenly matched, and because of that psychological advantage which favors the Tigers I look for a victory for old Nassau. Both teams should score.

Princeton 17, Harvard 10.

BOSTON COLLEGE-VILLA NOVA (1925, no game)

Harry Stuidraher has developed some fine teams since he took over the coaching regime at the Philadelphia college. His men will play smart football and the B. C. goal line will be in danger a good many times. The quick opening plays between guard and tackle are sure to go, as will a few wide end runs and forward passes with the ends crossing. He will put a finished team on the field and only by the tremendous power and drive which the Eagles have this year will they overcome Villanova's close game for Boston College.

B. C. 15, VN. 7.

WESLEYAN-WILLIAMS (1925, Wesleyan 10, Williams 2)

Two Little Three Rivals meet in the first championship game. The teams have been most unimpressive to date and look evenly matched.

Williams Has Edge

Williams, playing in her own backyard and having slightly the better of it in experience, should outfight Wesleyan, to win by a small score.

WILLIAMS.

NAVY-W. VA. WESLEYAN (1925, no game)

The Navy will be in fine fettle after unexpectedly defeating Michigan last week. The middies have found themselves and are off for a great year. It looks like a great game in Chicago the 27th, when they meet the Army. The southerners are a good team, but not good enough to overcome this kind of opposition.

NAVY.

WEST VIRGINIA-PITT. (1925, P. 15, W. Va. 7)

West Virginia displayed an utter lack of defense against forward passes last Saturday in the Missouri game, and undoubtedly Pitt has noted the same. It is always a hot, hotly contested game, being between ancient rivals.

PITT IS FAVORED TO WIN A CLOSE GAME.

COLUMBIA-WILLIAM AND MARY (1925, no game)

My hat is off to Charlie Crowley, and here's hoping he takes another one of the big boys before the season is over. By unexpectedly defeating Cornell last week the Lions loom as a fine eleven and should easily dispose of W. & M. in tomorrow's fracas in New York.

COLUMBIA.

SYLACUSE-GEORGETOWN (1925, no game)

This game will be one of the best on the list and looks to be a tossup. Syracuse is fully recovered from the Army game and Georgetown will enter the conflict with full strength, too; by past performances we find that against opponents of the same class the two teams have come through with similar results.

Th Orange has a team with more experienced players while the Hilltoppen will miss many of last year's star players, such as Plansky and Hagerty.

Syracuse Good at Home

Syracuse is a hard team to beat on the home field and seems to be a slight favorite because of these conditions. It will be a close game with both teams scoring.

SYRACUSE 14, GEORGETOWN 7.

HOLY CROSS-FORDHAM (1925, F. 17, H. C. 0)

We never saw a team where one man was such an important factor as Zev Graham is to Fordham this year. Graham is reported to be unable to play and if such is the case I will pick the reconstructed Holy Cross eleven to win a close game. The Purple lost three of her best men last week and will have a new fighting spirit to keep on the victory path. Fordham is strong despite the poor showing made against B. C. on Columbus Day and will give Cleo O'Donnell's team a battle.

HOLY CROSS 14, FORDHAM 3.

YALE-MARYLAND (1925, Y. 43, M. 0)

There's dissension all along the line in New Haven and unless a miracle is performed in the way of getting organization Old Eli will be in for one of her worst years in history. The Blue team can beat Maryland all right because of the vast material at hand but Princeton and Harvard will smother Yale in the next two weeks if Ted Jones doesn't perform an autopsy of some kind on the Bulldog.

YALE 31, MARYLAND 0.

PENN.-PENN. STATE (1925, no game)

These two bitter rivals will play their 27th annual gridiron battle tomorrow. Penn is one of the best teams in the East and despite the 9-0 defeat last week by Illinois the Red and Blue must not be underrated

PENN. TO WIN BY A CLOSE CALL.

BOSTON U.-DARTMOUTH (1925, no game)

Coaches Ed Robinson and Reggie Brown believe that B. U. has a chance tomorrow against the 'Big Green.'

Yes, they're right in every football game there's a chance for the underdog but I can't see that the chance is very big.

I'LL PICK DARTMOUTH TO WIN.

CARNEGIE TECH-N. Y. U. (1925, no game)

Chick Meehan's N. Y. U. boys have been coming along fine but will meet a tartar in Carnegie Tech. The Pittsburgh team is composed largely of veterans and looks to be a couple of touchdowns stronger than the Violets.

CARNEGIE TECH.

Lafayette is another contender for the Eastern mythical championship and by defeating the strong W. & J. team last week proved this point. Rutgers has improved but hardly enough to more than hope for a small Lafayette score.

YALE FEARS MARYLAND

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 5.—Yale fears the University of Maryland's forward passing game, which has already given the Southerners victory over such strong opponents as the University of North Carolina and Washington.

Last year it produced two touchdowns in quick succession here, Maryland leading Yale 14 to 0 at intermission. The scoring power Yale displayed in the second half reclaimed 43 points, but Yale coaches fear that their present eleven, which was generally reorganized this week, will be unable to score consistently, while Maryland's well-guarded passes may produce two or three touchdowns tomorrow. At the best Yale expects only a scant victory margin.

Passing the Puck

Although at the present writing they are looked upon as the third string line, Charlie Cahill, Bud Stuart and Hago Harrington will show to advantage for the Bruins before the close of the season. They are all huskers, and Harrington and Cahill are starting but their second season of big league hockey. Stuart is a veteran, but far from being old, as his scarcity of hair might indicate.

Although no official announcement has come through from Pres. Frank Calder, Eddie Enright, the former B. A. A. player, will be one of the National Hockey League referees this season. Eddie worked in a couple of games last Spring, and his handling of these contests won high favor and he was highly recommended to President Calder.

Manager Art Ross has announced that Jerry Geran had been sold outright to the St. Paul Club. Jerry has been a favorite with the Boston fans since he made his first appearance here with the Dartmouth team. Through his days with the old Arena Club, the Shoe Tradea, Navy, B. A. A. and Bruins, he has had a great following and the boys will miss the Holyoke Franchman.

Alphonse LaCroix is in Montreal to talk things over with Manager Dandurand. "Frenchy" was put in the nets for the Canadians when George Vezina's health went back on him early last season but he was replaced by Herb Rheaumot he former Westminster's goalie. Then LaCroix was used as a spare goal for the league, whatever that meant, but he was let out this season.

INJURIES HIT BROWN SCRUBS

Providence, R. I., Nov. 5.—Two injuries to second team men handicap the Brown football squad for the game with Norwich here tomorrow. Frank Eisenberg, substitute quarter, and Sam Larkin, second string halfback, suffered wrenched shoulders in scrimmages and are out of the game with the Cadets.

Coach McLaughry may send his first team into the encounter with the Norwich team this week but has not yet definitely decided what line-up will take the field against the Cadets. Randall will call signals in any case, as Eisenberg will not be able to get into uniform until the first of next week.

Merkle as Manager Knows Baseball | Quinn Not Ready Cav. and B. C.

NOW MERKLE NAMED FOR SOX JOB

MANAGERS are flying around like pigeons on the Common and the boys are beginning to think it's time the next Red Sox leader was elected. The boys are impatient of little things like business details. The mere fact that an owner may have to dicker and trade and jump hither and yon doesn't mean a thing to the boys. They want action whether there should be any or not. The sentencing of Dan Howley to St. Louis removes one of the leading candidates for the Fenway job, and now the gang is getting steamed up about Fred Merkle. Fred, it is conceded, knows enough baseball to make a very good director. He has been coaching with the Yanks for a season or so, and has seen the wheels of a champion machine go 'round. So why, the boys ask, wouldn't he make a good manager? Probably he would, and eventually will. Fred is smart, even though his most historic performance was somewhat along the other line. Fred, you may recall, failed to touch second base in a New York ball game, and that steered the Chicago Cubs right into a pennant. That lapse made Fred famous, but it doesn't alter the fact that he's clever and pleasant and very easy to get along with. He has been heading for a pilot's job for several years, and is wise enough not to hurry.

Nick Flatley

Mister Merkle entered the local situation when Art Fletcher was named to coach the Yankees. Art has been considered in the cafes and lunch rooms, and was well up in the rumor nominations. Then he crashed it by grabbing himself an actual job. That made it look as if Merkle had somewhere to go, and perhaps he has.

Too early to tell, yet. Bob Quinn has a whole Winter to pick a manager, and is very much engaged with the business end of his baseball club. He says he doesn't know yet what he's going to do, and Robert's word means what it sounds like, always. It might be mentioned in this connection that there is no chance of T. Cobb horning into the local scenery.

THE annual rumpus about Frank Cavanaugh and Boston College is with us. This is one of the strangest angles of all sport. Each Fall the major gives Boston College a whale of a football team. He has his squad on the top or thereabouts all the time. He keeps the name of the college blazoned on the sporting pages of the land.

Each Fall, however, there is the same stuff pulled about his getting the air. There is a Boston College element hostile to Cavanaugh, though the whys and wherefores are beyond understanding. The Major gets a little more sick of it as it recurs. First thing they know at the Heights, he'll pick off some other offer, and then there will be real bewailing.

Cavanaugh is, beyond any question, one of the country's greatest coaches. He knows the game inside out, and knows how to teach it. He was the father of the shift and other methods that are part and parcel of the game. He's the best-known coach there is. Wherever he goes, he will be successful, because his teaching and knowledge are sound.

Success follows the real coaches. Look at Pop Warner and Chick Meehan. Any one can find plenty of jobs, but Boston College will be cutting off its athletic head if it lets him go.

You Don't Have to Be a Grid Star to Get Caught in a Scrimmage

VILLANOVA REACHES HUB TODAY

Coach Stuhldreher Bringing Squad of 44 for Game With B. C. at Tepee Tomorrow

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

COACH Harry Stuhldreher's Villanova eleven which vies with the Eagles at the Wigwam tomorrow afternoon arrives in town today. The lightweight jockey of the far-famed Four Horsemen of Notre Dame is bringing a squad of forty-four athletes This is probably one of the largest grid outfits that ever made a long journey.

According to the Boston system every man is needed. He starts off with his regular team and in the second and third team in each of the following two periods. In the last period, if he's a good lad by a substantial margin he sends in the fourth machine. But if a sub does well on the bench and the regulars again do their stuff.

"That fourth team is going to have a rather peaceful afternoon," remarked Major Cavanaugh when he heard of the round-up of the squad.

The Blue and White squad will go directly to their hotel upon arrival. In the afternoon, Stuhldreher will give his colts a warming up at the Tepee

An interesting feature of the visitors is that they include nine natives. Dick Mogridge, the captain and strategist of the invaders, hails from Haverhill. Coach "Hodore" Carroll of St. James High, one of the best authorities on schoolboy athletes, said that Dick was about the best ball carrier he ever had under his wing. Carroll predicted that he would be one of the best in college ranks and he is.

He has not been as sensational as some of the other ball carriers on the eleven but plays a steady, consistent game that cannot be overlooked. A large portion of the team's success is due to the coolness of this Massachusetts lad in critical instances.

Two of the finest halfbacks that ever did their stuff in the Keystone State will be making things hard for the flight of the Eagles.

Broderick, who hails from Haverhill as his home town, is the left halfback berth in flashy fashion. He has been causing enemy lines apart all fall and does not intend to stop for the Maroon and Gold.

Blaine, the other halfback is probably the best ball carrier of the four. He is high scorer of the Stuhldreher club with 36 points to his credit. Blaine hits all parts of the line with equal ferocity.

Trophy Massachusetts boys will also see service with the hosties. Twomey, veteran end, helps keep awareness in the limelight. Jacko Donahue, the third Haverhill lad, will be in the second team back field. Ed Melanson, former Malden High star does not need an introduction. He's pacing the Villanova championa three years ago was outstanding.

For the first time this season the Bostonians face a club equal in weight. Regardless of this fact the Major intends to win "I realize that our opponents have a smart club but we are going to make it five straight," was the way the 3 C mentor summed up the coming fray.

New Leaders

Above is George Moriarty, former third-sacker of the Detroit Tigers and well-known umpire in the Johnson circuit, who will succeed Ty Cobb as manager of the Detroit Club. Dan Howley, resident of Weymouth, who gained fame in the International League by winning the pennant for Toronto this year, will fill the shoes of George Sisler as director of the St. Louis Browns.

PROMOTER BIDS $100,000 FOR LEWIS-STECHER BOUT

Chicago, Nov. 5.—(I.N.S.)—Promoter "Doc" Krone today offered a $100,000 purse, said to be the largest in wrestling history, to bid Lewis and Ed Stetcher for a world's title match in Chicago. It is planned to hold the match here early next year.

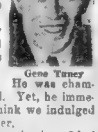
Gene Lauds Dempsey for His Courtesy While Champion

This is the twenty-eighth chapter of Gene Tunney's own story—written by himself—of his life and fighting career, written exclusively for the Boston Evening American

By GENE TUNNEY

World's Heavyweight Champion

THE first time I ever saw Jack Dempsey in the flesh was in 1920 at the ringside of the Wills-Fulton fight in Newark. I was introduced to Dempsey by Alex Sullivan, New York writer. My first visit with him occurred on a ferryboat when we were coming across from New Jersey to New York City.



Gene Tunney

Dempsey and I were on our way to file application with the New York Boxing Commission. Dempsey had come from Long Branch. We had traveled on the same train but did not know it until later.

At Jersey City we stepped aboard a ferry and I recognized the champion. For a time I stood by, admiring his powerful frame and his fine physique and approached him.

Dempsey was most affable and pleasant. He was champion. I was a nobody in the eyes of the world. Yet, he immediately began chatting about his work and I think we indulged in that most battered of all topics, the weather.

I was just recovering from an attack of ptomaine poisoning. I had been confined to my bed for three days. This was the only illness I ever experienced. I had lost considerable weight. I was ansemic and weak Dempsey saw me up quickly and I though I could read his thoughts by his kindly, though searching glance.

"Humph!" he seemed to be saying to himself, "that fellow looks as though he needed a couple of doctors instead of a boxing license."

Yet, this truly great champion was most democratic and painstaking in his analyses of the men he had fought and those with whom he was scheduled to mix. But he got that first impression of my being a weakling physically.

Gene Still Booster for Dempsey

First impressions, indeed are often lasting ones and I firmly believe that in thinking of me in later years and up to the very ringside at Philadelphia, Dempsey couldn't rid his mind of the impression that I was comparatively frazile.

After the boat had nosed into the slip, Dempsey bounded off with an agile movement and took a taxicab I walked. Our destination was No. 291 Broadway, the offices of the commission. You might say that I began my training for Dempsey right then and there—doing my road work to the Commission offices while he rode in a cab.

At the Commission, Dempsey was accompanied by his then trainer Teddy Hayes. I had no one with me. I was just plain Gene Tunney, an unknown.

My next social meeting with Dempsey was in Philadelphia—I forget the exact year—when I was booked to meet Sergeant Ray Smith in Camden. Joe Benjamin, the lightweight boxer, was with the Champion at that meeting.

We again talked, and I gathered an impression that Dempsey rather liked me. I believe he did then and does now. It was mutual. I like anyone that bore the honors that were his in such a frank, almost boyish manner—a man who was great in his strength and yet who was so considerate and kindly to others.

We chatted for a time in the Vendig Hotel and after that I became a Dempsey booster and still am!

I attended Dempsey's fights with Brennan and Carpentier and Firpo. I wanted to get as many "peeks" as possible at the man whom I felt in my heart was destined to be my opponent some day. I differ in this respect from many athletes, particularly boxers, who do not want to watch possible antagonists at all.

John L's Pal Helps Champion

I think, however, that I am wise in my plan I cannot see what harm can come from studying a man's style while he is in action against someone other than yourself. In this way I often have been able to formulate a scheme and plan of battle that has confirmed me in my procedure.

After all, no manager, trainer or second can plan a battle for you—all opinions of managers to the contrary. If you yourself cannot an and execute, then you are lacking in championship calibre, in my opinion.

Tomorrow Tunney tells how he put on five pounds weight before his training grind for his title battle with Jack Dempsey.

ROPER PRAISES HARVARD GRID WARRIORS

season, especially in the Yale game. He has every chance to make him the greatest tie game I have ever produced and from what I can learn Harvween has sold him the idea that he is the greatest in the game."

TIGERS IN FINE BATTLE

"Princeton is in perfect physical condition." It is doubtful if I will start Jake Slagle, who ran wild against Harvard last season. Jake has been on the hospital list since the week after the Amherst game but he is now ready to go in there and show at his best

"I will start Dannie Caulkins at quarter Baruch and Bridges at half back and "Mike" Miles at full. I always work Baruch and Bridges together and pair up Slagle with Prendergast. Williams will get in but only for five or ten minutes.

"On the forward line, Chuck' Howe will get the centre assignment with Capt. Davis and Baldwin, guards, French and Darby, tackles and Mosser and Stinson on the ends.

"There has been a great deal of comment going around the country as to how Jake Slagle met with the injury, which forced him to be almost out of action for many weeks.

"Jake is taking a course in zoology, and this class actually takes a week's trip to the Delaware Water Gap, where Gene Oberlander trains for Jack Dempsey. As Jake was in fine shape after the Amherst game, I agreed to allow him to make the trip. Upon his return to Princeton, he complained of a soreness to his hip.

"On Tuesday, he could just about walk and I called in some specialists. It was discovered that Jake had thrown out his left hip while climbing around in the Pocono Mountains. As his left leg was one inch shorter than his right one, a rope was tied to his ankle and another to his neck and Jake thought they were trying to pull him apart But it did the trick and Jake is ready."

"That is the story of Jake Slagle's injury. Now he has entirely recovered and will be there good and hot for Princeton when I give him the word."

The Princeton squad went through an hour's work out in the Stadium this morning. As it was raining when the team reached the field, they were decked out in those famous Roper oilskin football pants. Baruch, Jake and Miles did some punting while Baruch was also directed to try his drop kicking foot along with Swing, the Tigers' crack booter.

Much of the hour was spent passing. The ends and halfbacks were on the receiving end of the passes thrown by Jake Slagle and Dan Coulkins. Only the short, fast variety of passes were tried.

WOR FOR LINEMEN.

The linemen were down in the corner of the Stadium going through dummy scrimmage all during the workout.

After the workout the Princeton party was taken to the Belmont Spring Country Club, which will be their headquarters while they are here. The boys arrived at Belmont in time for lunch, after which they were ordered to take a short rest and to be ready for signal practice at 2:30.

Princeton will remain at Belmont until tomorrow noon and will go direct to theLocker Building on Soldiers Field at 12:30.

Keen Fitzgerald, the veteran trainer of the Tigers, bore out Coach Roper's statement that the men were all in the pink of condition and also that they were looking forward to the hardest battle they have fought against Harvard in years.

Weymouth Wanderers desire games with any of the leading professional teams in New England. Games preferably on their home. Write Robert T. Pollock, 18 Norfolk street, Weymouth, or call Braintree 1216 between 7 and 8 p. m.

Fittons Primed for Peabody Game

Flushed with their victory over the strong Salem Collegians whom they defeated last Wednesday night at the General Electric field, the Fitton A. C. will journey to Peabody Sunday to meet the University of Peabody team at the Leo Buckley Stadium

The largest crowd that has ever witnessed a football game on the North Shore will be on hand when the "Tanners," who have yet to meet defeat this season, lineup against the conquerors of the Salem team. In meeting the Fittons the Peabody team will face their strongest opposition. Both teams have met twice before and they each have one victory.

GREEN IS READY FOR TERRIERS

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 5.—On the eve of the Boston University game the Green squad is rapidly rounding into form. It is quite probable that tomorrow's game will see the native unleash one of its best aerial games of the season.

Hawley, Dartmouth's famous foot ball mentor, is determined to win the remaining two games on the schedule, and will spare no efforts to obtain his end.

The Boston University game will merely be a practice session for the Hanovarians before their big tilt with Gil Doble's Cornell eleven.

A great deal of interest will be manifested at the Cornell game, because it will show whether Dartmouth has a mediocre team or a fairly good one. To date the Indians have captured their first three games with Norwich, Hobart and U. P. I. They have lost to Yale, Harvard and Brown. If they lose to Cornell it will show that the practice which last year's famous eleven won has been lost on this year's team.

Horween Names Team to Start Conflict with Princeton

By TED LYNCH

COACH ARNOLD HORWEEN of the Harvard football squad today announced the battle array of the Crimson for the classic with Princeton in the Harvard Stadium tomorrow.

The starters in the duel with Princeton, with the exception of Strong, who succeeds Saltonstall at left wing, and Guarnaccia, who replaces French at left halfback, have borne the brunt of the Crimson attack and defense in all the games to date.

Coach Horween and his assistants gave the Harvard team its last drill before the big game this morning. The first string athletes were sent through a light signal drill and a few passes were tossed by the Crimson ball heavers.

After the workout the players were hustled off to the Oakley Country Club, where they will remain until shortly before game time. Coach Horween, fearful of the effects of having his players mingle with the gathering thousands in Cambridge, will give the players a complete rest.

Captain Coady and Pratt will take care of the tackle assignments, while Simonds and Gilgour will be at their accustomed guard positions. Gamache, of course, will be the pivot man.

Eliot Putnam will have another chance to add to his fame as a quarterback. In his supporting cast will be Al. Miller, Madison Sayles and Guarnaccia.

The Harvard squad is confident, but not overconfident. Coach Horween can be relied upon to have his men in an ideal state of mind at the start of the battle, and if the Tigers ever enjoy a mental edge, it will be due to something that happens after the starting whistle has sounded.

TIGERS QUIT LAIR TO CLAW CRIMSON

TIGER TRIO

Ernest Bartell, on right; James Bridges, below on left, and R. L. Darling, are three of the Princeton Tigers who will attempt to claw Harvard to a gridiron death in the Stadium tomorrow.

TITLE HINGES ON BIG TEN GRID GAMES

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Four Western Conference football teams pitched their tents today on the fields which tomorrow promises the closest battles the big ten has seen this Fall.

The label of "anybody's game," given the Illinois-Chicago encounter by Zuppke of the Illini, appeared generally appropriate for the day and successive complications in the 1925 title fight.

"We will be glad to win by the smallest score," the Illinois coach declared, although the return of Captain Kassell and D'Ambrosio to the ends increased Illinois' chances of downing Chicago. The reappearance in the lineup of several good backs bolstered hopes among the battered Maroons, however.

Phelan of Purdue and Thistlewaite of Northwestern had nothing whatever to say about their encounter at Evanston from which one of the elevens undefeated in the conference is expected to emerge a title challenger.

At Iowa City was a case of two teams that have demonstrated scoring ability but been comparatively weak on defence, with the prospect of a dashing fight between Iowa's attack behind Cowboy Kutsch and the mauling Minnesota charge which centres about Joestring.

Wisconsin treked to Ann Arbor, a favorite to suffer at the hands of a Michigan team desirous of regaining the prestige lost by last week's defeat at the hands of Navy. Michigan is given a better chance.

Fournier Now Hinted as Next Red Sox Boss

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The baseball gossips have chosen still another manager for the Boston Red Sox. This time it is Jacques Fournier, the demon French slugger, who was unconditionally released by the Brooklyn Robins yesterday at his own request because he had a "wonderful opportunity to manage a ball club next season." But the rumor is unverified.

TO PICK HUB BOXERS FOR NEW YORK SHOW

Three class winners in the weekly amateur boxing tournament of the St. Joseph's T. A. S. at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin square, tomorrow night will be selected as Hub representatives in an inter-city tournament at the New York A. C. next Monday night. William J. Cuddy, director of the tournaments, has been asked to send three Hub boys to Gotham for this event.

It is expected that this will add interest to the affair. Seven classes, including two novice divisions, are on the cards. The novice classes include 147 and 160 pounds, while the open classes comprise 113, 118, 126 and 135 pounds and heavyweight.

WEST VIRGINIA OFFERED GAME ON BROWN PROGRAM

Buckhannon, W. Va., Nov. 5 (A. P.).—West Virginia Wesleyan College, which opposes the Navy at Annapolis tomorrow, had been invited to play Brown University at Providence, R. I., next year. A decision on the bid has not been made by Wesleyan athletic authorities.

Greatest Golf Shot That I Ever Saw

By O. B. KEELER

Noted Golf Writer; Bobby Jones Boswell.

THE finest golf shot I ever saw lacked a great deal of being the most important. I have witnessed my share of the important ones, too, and some of them were remarkably fine shots.

But I think the finest shot I ever saw was in a little exhibition match in Atlanta, at East Lake, the home course of Bobby Jones, and it was Bobby who played it, within a dozen yards of the little cottage beside the No. 1 fairway, where he lived as a child, and back of which he used to practice through the long Summer afternoons, a tiny, tow-headed figure carrying a cap full of balls to the thirteenth green of the old course—it was changed in 1914—and pitching and putting, pitching and putting, hour after hour, all by himself.

It was certainly a remarkable match in its personnel, at that, bringing together for the benefit of some women's club Stewart Maiden —"Kittie, the King-Maker," teacher of champions—and his three most famous pupils, Alexa Stirling, three times national woman champion Bobby Jones and Perry Adair.

The first hole is a fine two-shotter of 400 yards to an upland green across a little valley which crosses the fairway some 250 yards from the tee.

Bobby's tee shot had wheeled off to the right a bit and the ball rolled into a ditch parallel with the fairway and along its edge.

It was not a deep ditch, but one with a mean disposition, and the ball had lodged at its bottom in a sort of groove in the hard red clay about four inches wide—a water channel, dry and baked now, and barely wide enough to permit the passage of a club head. Worse yet the channel was not aiming exactly at the green, so that a club head swung fairly through the groove could not swing straight toward the hole.

Bobby studied the situation with some care and "drew a No. 4 iron. The ball was about 170 yards from the green. His stance was at least a foot higher than the position of the ball, and he had to swing down the line of the clay channel to get at it.

How he ever got hold of the ball well enough to apply spin to it, I never shall understand, but he did—so much spin, in fact, that he actually got the ball well up in the air, and brought it around from right to left, as if pulling it around on an invisible string, on to the green, where it rolled to within two feet of the pin for a birdie 3.

NIAGARA FLAYS SPY SYSTEM OF URBAN

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Frank Weitzman, secretary of the student council at Niagara University, today issued a statement in which he charged that discovery has been made that representatives of the football team of Canisius college, Buffalo, have been spying on the Niagara University eleven during the latter's secret practice here before the game scheduled between the two schools on Saturday.

In his statement Mr. Weitzman said:

"It is generally known last year that Canisius knew our plays and signals before the game. They got them in no honest way. A Canisius man boasted of their spying to a Niagara man on the night following the game while the two were in a Buffalo hotel.

GUARDS SEE INTERLOPERS.

Niagara expected the same sneaking methods this year. In fact Louis Urban (Canisius coach) is reported to have promised a spy at each Niagara practice this week.

"Guards were detailed by Niagara student council to protect the privacy of Niagara's field. The guards were stationed on the roof of St. Vincent's Hall with field glass and examined every car that parked near the campus.

"Two men parked their car in Lucar street near Niagara University at 4:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The men left the car and one walked along a railroad toward the campus, climbed a fence to the orchard that is south of the field, and, crouching low, crept from tree to tree toward the gridiron. The purple were in secret practice. His companion followed him at some distance.

SPIES MAKE GETAWAY.

"When the Niagara men on the roof gave the alarm a crowd of Niagara men rushed to the spot. The spies fled one to the east and the other to the farm beyond the factory. The Niagara students surrounded the farm and held the spy prisoner there until dark.

"The automobile bore license plates 4E-7971. The driver was recognized by several Niagara men as a Canisius student, a substitute lineman on their varsity football squad. The car raced along Niagara street several times as the spy looked for his companion who was held prisoner on the farm.

"The angry Niagara students finally ordered the driver to stop but he ignored their signal. The Niagara men then hurled stones and pieces of concrete at the car smashing all the windows and denting the body badly. The driver stepped on the gas and the car disappeared. The Buffalo Chief of police reports that license 4E-7971 was issued to Miles Hahn. No report of the stoning car was made to police in Lewiston or Niagara Falls.

Scouting Big Help to Football Game, Says Red Grange

This is the first of a series of football articles by "Red" Grange most famous of football players, written for the Boston Evening American. Grange will contribute daily stories during the remainder of the season.

By HAROLD "RED" GRANGE

World's Most Famous Football Player

(Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The latest agitation in football appear to concern scouting. For some years past the scout was regarded as a necessary adjunct to a football eleven and the system did not draw any censure.

Red Grange

Every coach had one or more trained observers engaged in the work of sizing up a team to be met later. Some coaches went so far as to assign men to follow one rival eleven in all its early games.

Then came that agreement between Bill Roper and Tad Jones, coaches of Princeton and Yale, respectively, that each would make no effort to get any advance information of the other's plans. The idea seemed to spring up that something was unethical in the practice. A few days ago three of the smaller Eastern colleges went on record as opposed to future scouting.

I have been asked what I think of the idea of doing away with all scouting. I say unreservedly that football would suffer if all coaches decided to abandon the practice.

Why? Because to my mind the only value of scouting is to discover the weaknesses of a team and thus keeps coaches and teams hustling to eliminate the weak spots, if they know the rivals are scouting. Hard work and hustle makes better football than if a coach felt he might be able to get through any particular game without having the weakness discovered.

VALUE OF SCOUTS.

Most people who have talked with me about football seem to have an idea that the main duty of a scout is to learn the formations and trick plays of the eleven which they are investigating. The value of the scout in this particular is nil. His main value is in finding just where the weakness is and the coach, with this knowledge, can plan his attack.

Every college eleven has one marked weakness, and most of them have two or three. The reason for this is that the coach has to make the best of the material at hand and it is only natural that it does not measure up in every position to the same standard. Find the defect, plan your attack to meet it and you have taken advantage of all that a scout can do for any team.

So much is written about secret practice and trick formations that an idea has grown among football followers that the best coached eleven is the one that has the greatest number of these so-called trick plays. I have been thoroughly convinced for the past two or three years that there are no new plays in football and have not been for a long time back.

There are a few standard plays in football, and only a few. The idea is to mask them in a deception so but they are the same old plays that coaches have been using for years. The effort is made to dress them up new but that is as close as they come to novelty. We coaches and experienced players quickly sense the play even in its new garb, and that is the reason why some formation, on which coaches have spent long hours coaching and on which put in hard worked long and earnestly, fails to gain ground when trotted out for real competition.

I recently asked one of the best coaches in football—I regard him as one of the very best—to tell me of one entirely new play, one that had not been tried before, and he admitted he couldn't. If there were anything of the kind it would know, because he keeps well posted on all the details of the game.

There is a value, of course, in secret practice but it is not so much in learning a lot of tricks as in being able to go through the drill with a minimum of interruption and annoyance.

SECRET DRILL IS...

Yet I favor both scouting and secret practice. Each has its benefit side, though not the way it has been pictured. I believe each has been credited as far more valuable than it ever can hope to be. I often wonder with all the mystery that one finds woven around football, how the game has ever taken such interest in the game as we see manifested all about us.

Corner Kitchen Cake Secrets Revealed

By MARTHA LEE

"HOW did you make that beautiful cake?" We often hear this question asked at luncheon or dinner when a delicious home-made cake is served but the hostess, I find, is pretty reluctant to divulge the real cake secrets.

My honest belief though, is that wherever you find an exceptionally good, mouth-watering cake you will find that the maker has used real cake flour, not bread or pastry or prepared flour, but the flour especially perfected for cake making.

The kind we use in our Corner Kitchen is sifted eight times through silk. This gives our cakes a fine grain and texture, absolutely impossible to secure with any other flour that we have discovered so far.

Not only do we use this flour for our cake baking, but we find it excellent for dumplings, doughnuts, pie crusts, muffins, cakes, fancy bread, waffles, fritters, popovers, cream puffs, etc.

We often add a little to our cake frostings. That makes them set quickly. Puddings and gravies seem to thicken more smoothly with the magic flour.

Another little kitchen trick of ours, when the roommates separates (as it seems possessed to do sometimes) is to add a little cake flour, beat it for a moment with our extra specially good egg-beater and the damage is repaired.

We powder our cakes lightly with this flour before icing, too, so that the frosting won't run off and we add a spoonful of it with a little sugar to the white of one egg for a delicious meringue for lemon pies. And we are proud to state that we use it in the foundation of all our cooked ice cream mixtures.

So much for our cake flour. The cakes themselves are divided into two fundamental classes. Sponge cakes and butter cakes. After we have learned to make these two foundations, it is easier to make any variation of either.

Today I'm going to give you the foundation for a regulation sponge cake, the true variety made without baking powder.

Foundation Sponge Cake—Sift 1 cupful cake flour, grate ½ lemon rind into 1 cupful granulated sugar, extract and measure the juice (there should be two tablespoonfuls). Beat the yolks of five eggs until light colored and thick, add the lemon juice. Beat the whites of five eggs and one whip until very light. Fold the sugar in carefully then the egg yolks, and last the flour sifted with ¼ teaspoon of salt. Do not beat or stir, but cut and fold.

To bake a sponge cake, divide the time into four quarters of fifteen minutes each. At the end of the first quarter the cake should begin to rise; in the second quarter it should rise to full height and brown slightly; in the third quarter it should brown all over; in the fourth quarter it should finish baking and settle somewhat in the pan.

The heat should be rather low until the cake has reached its full height, then increased for 15 minutes while browning, then decreased until it is done. A broom straw inserted in the center of the cake should come out clean when the cake is done.

Let the cake cool in the pan, inverted; in this way the moist cell walls are made firm while elongated and the light airy texture is maintained. Serve the cake by pulling it apart with two silver forks.

Now here's an economical sponge cake, using only two eggs.

Economy Sponge Cake—Beat two egg yolks with egg beater until thick, add 1 cupful sugar gradually and continue the beating. Add 5 tablespoons cold water and 2 tablespoon of lemon juice. Sift flour and measure 1 1-3 cupfuls cake flour, add 1 teaspoon baking powder and ¼ teaspoonful salt and sift again. Add gradually to the first mixture. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a loaf about 30 minutes in moderately hot oven 350 degrees F.

Or if you feel like splurging a bit, I know you will be quite crazy about this.

Chocolate Ice Box Cake—Beat the yolks of three eggs, then beat in each ingredient one after another in the following order: ¼ cupful cold water, 1 ¼ cupfuls sugar, grated rind lemon or ½ teaspoonful lemon extract, 1 cupful cake flour, ½ cupful cold water, 1 cupful cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 egg whites. Bake in a tube sponge cake pan, 45 minutes in moderate oven, or in a biscuit pan or layer cake pans about 15 minutes.

This cake is good for strawberry or other shortcakes, or for sponge jelly roll. It will make two jelly rolls.

When cold divide crosswise in three pieces for the icebox cake like a chocolate bread tin and line paper. Place one piece of cake in the pan. Melt the chocolate in a double boiler (1¼ cakes or 2-3 pound sweet chocolate) add 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons water and beaten yolks of four eggs. Cook until smooth, stirring constantly.

When cold add the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Pour one-half of filling over the cake, put in another piece, then remaining part of filling. Place third piece on top and set in ice box for twelve hours. When ready to serve, whip cream, cover with ¼ pint whipped cream and chopped nuts.

Tomorrow I am going to give you the foundation rule for butter cakes and some good variations that we make with this same scrumptious cake flour. Until then, bye bye.

Faithfully yours

Martha Lee

"The Making of a Husband"; Ann Lisle's Serial

LULLED by the happy warmth of his presence I asked almost sleepily:

"How will you manage? What do you want to do?"

"I want you to pick up that telephone and call Jim," Neal answered. "I've only got a few days to stick around here in the East. We must settle things quickly. I'm sure if you ask him to forgive you he will take you back. Go ahead, Bubbles! I sit in the call for Jim this minute unless you get another of your stubborn specials."

"I'm going to make you rue that, Neal," I murmured in a voice that seemed to come from a stranger and not from the dear young half-brother I used to mother. "Now you get into some sensible clothes and we'll clear out of this crazy artist's apartment. When we get down to my hotel we can talk. I'm strangling here in this Perzuni den. The old dame may come in any minute"——

"Who's off on a trip," I told him.

"And you're burning her lights and using her place and making yourself a charity case," Neal asserted. "Come on. Each your things, Babbs and we will fight out."

"I'm going to work for Madame Petruni," I said miserably. "I'm going to do the publicity for some of her pupils."

"Sure—more foreigners!" Neal objected.

"Young Carlin is a foreigner, but the Lind-Massons are Americans like you and me. He was a New England farmer boy named Lind, but he added the name of the rich Summer visitor who helped him to get his education. She was the cashier in the cabaret where he started singing after he stopped delivering milk and began delivering high notes."

"I don't give a darn who they are," Neal said stubbornly. "What is you mean by hanging onto the skirts of all these strangers? What is the matter with your family? They're the ones to stand by."

"They don't," I told him sadly. "Take your own firm. The beginning of my trouble was when Pat took your advertising away from me. That almost broke me financially, and it surely broke my heart."

"Babbs, have you been getting enough to eat?" Neal asked leaning forward suddenly and examining me critically. "You're white as a ghost and thin as a rat. Have you been hard up?"

I tried to lie. But the shaking of my weak voice belied me.

"What have you been living on? Crackers and milk—or does the Perzuni woman support you as well as house you?"

And then in a torrent of weak, uncontrolled words the account of my fortnight of hardship burst from my lips. Neal listened gravely, his hand over mine, his eyes gentle and kind. When I had finished with a pity I hadn't dreamed I could endure. But it comforted me to see how Neal ached at the tale of my troubles.

"See Pat to give me back the Fallon Sturges publicity," I cried at the end of my recital. "I can ride through if I have that account. I can keep my office. I can keep my good stove water. I haven't any pride left. I'd take it."

"I'll try," Neal said afraid Pat is adamant. We have a position to maintain. You've put yourself in the wrong, Babbs. We're not mere goboobies who can stand the gaff and the publicity. You are a member of a clan and your conduct reflects on them."

"Love me a clean," I begged. "I'll make good. I'll hang onto my self respect and make the world see I'm a real person—not just a weak parasite to put up with slights and degradation. Please Neal—for Father Andrew's sake—for the sake of our little mother—for your children's——"

"I'll do my best," Neal answered. "What you've got to do two things. One is come down to the hotel and stay there until we can get you suitably placed. The other is have an interview with Jim. You have said you wouldn't let pride interfere with business. Surely it can't stand between you and Jim, either. Call him——"

"Tomorrow," I said. "Let me relax tonight. I'm tired. I'll come to lunch with you tomorrow. I'll move in the afternoon if you say so. I'll even—try to get myself to—ask Jim for an interview. Can I do more?"

"That's a good girl. I knew you'd listen to your Neal," said my brother as he arose and bade me good-night. "And now a little cash——"

To be Continued Tomorrow.

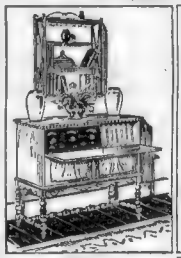
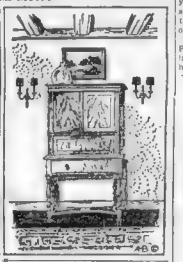
Furnishing the Home

By Marian Moore





THE radio no longer needs to be relegated to the boys' room or the sun parlor, as was the case when head phones, primitive wiring and cabinets of doubtful design rendered such a course necessary.

The ha dsome consoles now manufactured, together with the scientific improvements in radio architecture, give it a legitimate place in the living room; for it now fulfils a the double purpose of utility and beauty required of all our household possessions.

Placing the radio in the living room is a problem which can be solved according to the usual principles of furniture grouping. Its importance in the group depends on its size, shape and artistic merit, just as in the case of a desk, table or cabinet.

The cute above illustrate its proper treatment. The first console, of Spanish design, being long and rather low, needs to be extended upwards by some form of mural decoration. The hanging bookshelf is both attractive and handy; it has all the colorful qualities of a picture or an art panel, plus the charm of novelty and individuality.

In the second picture, the "high boy" type of console is used effectively against an English cottage background. Notice the proportion of the picture to the wall space.

FASHION FADS

Materials Far From Immaterial—In determining the smartness of the Fall and Winter costumes, for the styling is no more important than the fabric of which the models are styled. While velvet predominates, there are a number of cashmere-like fabrics, a great variety of sports coatings, and soft kasnas as well as very heavy satins that are extremely smart. Also in favor are new lame novelties, many of which are in moire effect, crepe, satin, georgette and crepe de chine.

Footprints in the Sands of Style should, more appropriately, be called "fingerprints" for the newest shade in washable suede gloves is called "sandalo." This creamy beige tone is repeated in the exquisitely sheer hose that are intended to be worn when these smart, pull-on gloves are in evidence.

The SECRET STUDIO

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

A Boston Romance With a Charming Heroine

CHAPTER 46.

"WELL, you can come home whenever you feel lonesome," said Ma the next morning, "and get a square meal. Rosemary, promise me you'll eat plenty of vegetables and not go filling up on cake and pie!"

Rosemary promised, laughing and the leave-taking, with Joe hurrying her off, joking about the weight of the suitcase, and Ma saying "Be sure to lock both the doors at night!" wasn't hard after all.

As the thrill of settling down that first evening. "Sloan, let's cook at the apartment, instead of going out to dinner. Wouldn't it be a lark?"

They bought crabs, and artichokes and chops and French bread, and two kinds of cheese. Their arms were filled with knobby, bursting bundles when they finished shopping, and opened the door to "our apartment," as Sloan insisted on calling it.

"Yes, but you better not let anyone hear you calling it that," said Rosemary, making the mayonnaise while Sloan cracked the crab.

"Very well, m'lady. But you have to admit that this domestic scene warrants it——"

"Sloan—don't you dare touch me with those crabby hands!"

"Well, doesn't it?"

"I suppose so. But it isn't nearly as funny as Ellen and Hal used to be in Ellen's apartment. I'm sure Ellen had the worst apartment I ever saw in my life. Why, you couldn't walk across the floor with out the dust coming out of the carpet and puffing up at you!"

"Ellen—that's the young lady I met at Hoffer's musical, isn't it? The girl with the bracelets, and the fuzzy hair?"

"She—she's an artist, you know."

"Oh."

And they looked at each other, laughing, shaking with inward excitement. It took so little to make them laugh!

"Go on—how domestic were they?"

Oh, he used to come over on Sunday and read poetry to her while she did the washing and ironing. If you could have seen them—" she broke off in a peal of laughter, reminiscent, bubbling with happiness.

"And did they live happily ever after? What do you mean?"

The new note in his voice startled her. She laid down the egg beater. "What d oyou mean?"

"Well—did it work? Are they getting along?"

"Yes—of course. Only Ellen gave up the apartment last month to economize. She's living in a rooming house—it's awful, but they're saving money."

"Where's he living?"

"I don't know."

"Then it didn't work after all."

"Oh, yes, Sloan! They're just saving their money. Why, didn't I tell you they're going to be married this Winter?"

"And do you think that's a step they're going to be happy?" His voice was low, faintly hard.

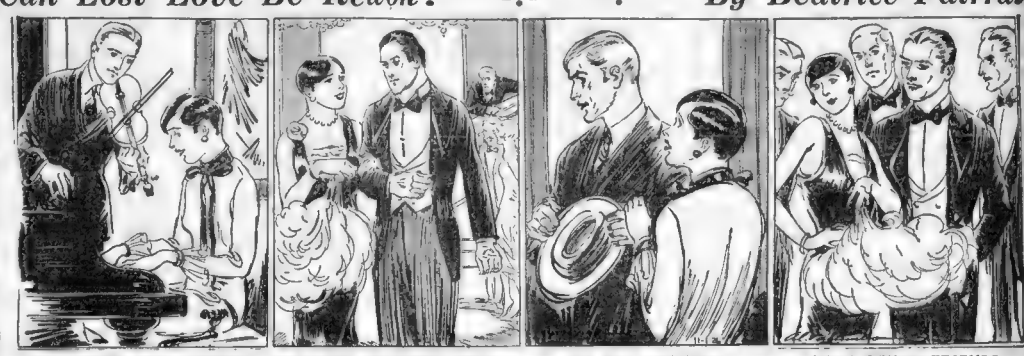
"I don't see why not."

I thought you had got past that nonsense," he said bitterly, giving a vicious jab at a claw with a hammer. It snapped and struck his thumb.

"Be damned thing!" He flung it from him furiously.

"Sloan, dear—I'm so sorry!"

Can Lost Love Be Rewon? -:- -:- By Beatrice Fairfax



THEY WERE GOOD FRIENDS — ACCEPTED ANOTHER ESCORT — HE WAS ANNOYED — SEEK OTHER FRIENDS

TO lose a friendship whether the loss be one's own fault or the result of misfortune is a hard experience and may be heart-breaking. When rented or loves is lost, is it beyond recall? Can love be won back by means of tact, patience and untiring affection?

These questions are asked me frequently by young people. "Very Anxious" writes:

"I have been going about with a young man four years my senior for over a year. I am a quiet girl, although I like a good time once in a while.

"I was not engaged to this young man, so I felt entitled to go about with others if I wished.

"Another young man whom we both know gave a party and said he would ask me to it that I got there early. I expected that my especial friend would call for me when the night came. But instead, he friend who was giving the party came him self.

"My friend was there when we arrived. I went up and asked to see him, but I could see something was wrong, and later he went home without saying goodbye.

"All this happened seven months ago. Since then we have been estranged at his home by his mother and sister and they have been at my home. We are on speaking terms, but although I asked him twice what is the matter he will not tell me.

"Please tell me how I can win him back?

Are you sure you had not in any way hurt your friend before the party was given? Had you treated him with gracious kindness, so that he would naturally have asked you to go with him as usual?

Sometimes girls ignore one friend and admire in order to make him jealous by deliberately flirting with another. This is as unkind as it is short-sighted and it usually repels one if not both men.

Tell him frankly how much you regret your thoughtless rudeness and how you value his friendship.

Ask him whether you and he can't begin all over again.

Now and then a man loses all interest in a girl quite suddenly, without any definite cause. There's little you can do to win back such a waning interest save to continue to be your charming, friendly self, refraining from reproaches, nagging jealousy and whines.

He Was Very Quiet, too, Very Gentle, and Strangely Cool

"The devil you are!" His face was livid. The sudden agony had released all the lurking poison in him. All the bitterness of the old hurt, all the acid of his self-doubt of her and of all other women came out now in a burst of venom.

"Sorry! You make me sick. Sorry enough over a fib in the church, but when it comes to really risking something for a man—bah! You're a bunch of pikers—you and Ellen and all the rest of your safety first friends. Lord! Sometimes I envy Ceylon. At least Nina knows her own mind. She doesn't play fast and loose like a scared rabbit."

They made 't up, but the joyousness was gone. After all their trouble, the dinner wasn't much of a success. Rosemary burned the chops and there was something the matter with the percolator — the coffee was pale and bitter.

"It was the pain of smashing his thumb that made him say that. You're liable to say anything when you're hurt so badly. He didn't mean it."

She came and took his hands in hers, holding the hurt thumb against her cheek.

"Rosemary, don't you want me to go?"

There was a long silence. Then he stopped his hands out of hers, very gently. "You don't know what you want. I—I didn't really what a kid you were. Well, I'll wash the dishes for you."

Then after a time——

"You're awfully quiet."

"Am I?" She drew his head down and kissed him shyly — the first time. Surely he'd see—he'd know how much she cared—

* * *

But he didn't seem to notice. He was very quiet, too, very gentle, and strangely cool.

After a while: "Sloan, come to-morrow. Five o'clock——"

"I'm afraid I can't, Rosemary. I've been neglecting the farm. You know I've been in a position of peril. There's a lot of sentimental rush poured out about the danger to young girls left alone in the great and wicked city. Nobody pauses to consider the danger to which unprotected and deserted men are exposed." ("Hired Hearts" from the masculine representation.)

The orator warmed to his theme. "Thrown upon our own resources several months out of every year, when wives decamp in a body for seashore and country — marooned upon this lonely city of Boston, long known as the haunt of the most seductive species of sirens, deserted by the lawful partners of our bosoms—"

"Thought you deserted yours, Marty," cut in Sara.

"It was mutual, thank God. I shall write a play about abandoned husbands and call it 'Summer Bach elors.' By Jove, there's an idea."

"Mr. Cole's play will then, have a moral to it?" inquired Richard Otley with what seemed to be grave interest.

"No. I don't draw morals. I draw pictures; pictures of life."

But Otley's interest was not enduring, for the next moment he was leaning toward Derry and saying: "Don't you think this is a ghastly waste of good music?"

Sue rose and slipped into the curve of his arm. They moved out upon the crowded floor, gliding between the couples, under his guidance, with almost uncanny elusive ness.

"Do you know where I'd like to be tonight?" she said dreamily as the scented human bent of the place simmered about them.

"No. Let's go there."

"Not so easy. I'd like to be sailing straight into the horizon, with a tan knot breeze abeam and every thing set."

"What type of boat do you sail?"

"Sloop mostly. Have you got one waiting at the corner?"

He looked at his watch. "We can be aboard in less than two hours."

"How practical and immediate you sound! Do you keep sloops in stock?"

"On occasion. Will you come?"

"It can't be that the man is serious!"

"Can't it, indeed! Try him."

Derry's eyes crinkled with the deceptive dispersal of her skepticism.

"I do believe—— who else is going?"

"Was that in the wish?"

"Just you and I alone?"

"If I were doing the wishing, indeed I would. Are you afraid?" he asked.

"Delightfully. That's what makes it so tempting. But there's always a rate of fare, isn't there; seven hours here and the horizon? It can't be higher than I could afford."

"This isn't a pay-as-you-go trip Derry," he said quietly.

"Where ain't going to be no trip," she sighed with mock regret.

Throughout the evening Willow Dean had seemed distrait and absent. Settling it down to profitable enjoyment over Martin Cole's sulkiness Derry thought little of it. Sue's quarrel which would adjust itself by the inevitable process of reconciliation, though she sometimes was puzzled over the phases of the relationship between the playwright and the actress, whatever it might be.

"Take me home with you," wh-spered Willowdean as the party began to break up.

"Kiss it's nearly 3 o'clock," protested Derry.

"I know it. But I've got to talk or burst!"

"Now," said Derry, when they were in her apartment, and had doned necklaces, "what's raising your temperature?"

"Martin's jealous."

"Of whom?"

"Blackie."

"Walter Blakely! Far l'amour de Mikel Imagine you getting interested in a learned psychological pedagog."

"I'm not. Why shouldn't I?" retorted the other, after which evidence of divided counsels she announced her intention of going to bed.

Derry had a sharp, surprising suspicion. "Have you been seeing him except at rehearsals?"

"No. Yes. Depends on what you mean by rehearsals. I've been up to his laboratory to work on that hypnotic stunt."

"Deenie! I'll bet you've been letting him really hypnotize you."

"What if I have!"

"It isn't the safest game in the world."

"What do I care? It can't last long anyway. And you don't have to go under unless you want to. I usually want to," she added dreamily.

"Deenie! Are you in love with Walter Blakely?"

The other did not answer directly. "Oh, you needn't be afraid. Whether or not I'm in love with him, he doesn't make love to me. He has never even kissed me, though I've tried several times to make myself specially kissable. You see, I'd made a sort of bet with myself that I'd save his soul from science, and I'm not a bit sure that I'm going to win. But I'd better go to bed if I'm to look my prettiest self for him to-morrow."

"What's up tomorrow?"

"Nothing special. He's taking me out to early dinner and——"

"You don't think that's anything special for Walter Blakely? I'll bet he never did such a thing in his life before he met you."

"I hope not," returned the other with a pretense of demureness.

"Oh sure, Deenie." This was further than Derry had ever ventured in direct warning.

Willowdean only smiled. There were dreams in her smile.

ty of the poor male of the species. Usually, one would think that there was only one sex worth considering in the world. I'm sick of it with always men!"

"Well, what about us?" offered Bartram helpfully. "Get it off your chest."

The playwright promptly did so, adopting an ominous and prophetic mien. "I see in a position of peril. Get Lime in Diet

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU are a chemical compound!

This may surprise you, but it's a fact. Don't squirm. It's entirely respectable. We are all made the same way. If our bodies were burned, dissolved, run through crucibles, retorts and test tubes, and otherwise analyzed, they would be found, as many have been found, to consist only of certain definite chemical elements. It's their combinations in proper proportions that makes our bodies what they are. These proportions are maintained by the food we take. If that food is for a long time deficient in some of these chemical elements we suffer accordingly.

Thus, for example, we must have lime (calcium). If we don't get it, particularly if a child doesn't get it, there is trouble. So with vitamins, too. These two substances will serve for my present illustration.

Now, the importance of vitamins in the diet is well known. But of equal importance and not as well known is the fact that the quantities of vitamins must be balanced with other factors if their presence is to ensure a maintenance of health.

Thus the germ of cereals contains a large quantity of vitamin B. But if puppies are given the germ of oatmeal without a very considerable amount of the lime-making, or calcifying, vitamin D, they suffer from severe rickets, which even quite large amounts of butter will not avert. Rickets, however, does not occur if they have extra calcium added to the diet.

The only considerable source of calcium in common food stuffs is milk, but the so-called lime-making, by which is meant lime-depositing, or calcifying vitamins are contained also in beef drippings or bacon fat in eggs and in cod-liver oil.

If milk and cheese are taken in any quantity there will be sufficient calcium in the diet, but large numbers of poor children get practically none of these.

Whole grain bread instead of white flour bread increases the calcium in the food but makes more urgent the adequate supply of anti-rachitic vitamin on account of its large content of vitamin B.

One pint of cow's milk would supply nearly the whole of the calcium required in a day's food.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Advise Women

to adopt new hygienic method and return freshness this way; true protection; discards like tissues

LARGELY on medical advice, women are abandoning the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new way that supplants uncertainty with positive protection.

Sheer frocks and ill-timed social engagements no longer remain as worries. Lost days are fewer, and health better.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends ALL fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves the risk of old ways.

DAILY SHORT STORY

A SECRET OF THE WHITE SILENCE

By William Allen Ward

OLD CARIBAN GRIMSOM, gaunt and melancholy, sat before the fireplace in his primitive cabin and brooded like an ancient patriarch who was sad for the sins of the world. Beside Grissom sat his Indian wife, but the Siwash woman did not understand the sadness that corroded the heart of her mate. Old Grissom, most forlorn of men, listened to the weird voices of the blizzard and plunged deeper into an abyss of despair.

Old Grissom and his Indian wife lived in a primitive cabin west of the Mackenzie and not a great distance from the boundary line separating Yukon territory from the Northwest. For years he had lived in the vast white silence as a trapper and, with the exception of a few trips to Fort MacPherson and Good Hope, he met no white man save a few fellow trappers out in the great wilderness of snow.

"I never thought old Dick would so desert me!" mused Cariban Grissom as he gazed into the fire.

The Siwash woman paid little attention to her husband's mutterings. She didn't understand the musings of the white man and she was accustomed to hearing her mate talk low to himself when the night was black intones sad as the lone wolf's howl.

"I never thought old Dick would leave me!" Cariban Grissom muttered again. "Way South with all the gold we had shifted from the Mackenzie's cold waters . . . left me up here to spend my life in the white silence!"

Cariban Grissom dozed. His pipe dropped from his mouth. The Siwash woman, stole with the melancholy blood of a million generations of progenators, who had learned from brooding Arctic the lesson of forbearance, watched in silence the strange blond human from the Southland whom she loved.

Outside, the voice of the Arctic roared with a fury that told of a giant whose breath was that of the biting blizzard and whose soul was the remorseless spirit of the Northland. In the distant foothills a wolf pack, answering the call of the wild, raced madly across a white wond.

Old Grissom awoke from his nap. His filled his pipe. Again his brooding mind went back through the ten years he had remained in the north country. He was thinking of Dick Gaston, the youth from Kansas, who had left him, carrying the entire amount of dust the two had wrenched from the grim old Mackenzie during months of hard labor and privations.

In his memory Grissom recalled how one Spring morning, when the ice was just breaking, Dick had taken the gold with him on a trip to Fort Good Hope. There was not a great deal of gold in the sack and the partners had remained in the frozen North during the Winter hoping to make a better bit the following Spring. Dick was to take the sack of gold dust down to the Fort and bring back supplies for the Summer. Grissom remained behind to get things ready for the big prospecting trip up near the mouth of the Mackenzie. Ten years had slipped along, Grissom, and with the bitterness of lost friendship, grew sour with the passing of the years.

He said to himself that if Dick Gaston proved unfaithful there was no further use of placing trust in any white man! Old Grissom lost faith in his race. He resigned himself to the solitude of the Arctic and, choosing a Siwash woman for a mate built himself a cabin and tried to forget the ways of white men.

The long Winter night at length drew to a close. Old Grissom determined to visit Fort Good Hope a bit earlier this year, hoping to get a pick of supplies that had been brought by early tradesmen from the South. Throughout the years Grissom had followed the open trail from his cabin to the banks of the Mackenzie, but this time he determined to follow a winding route that led through jutting spurs of mountains. He had hoped to find a few specimens of rare fur bearing animals in those isolated spurs.

Grimsom built his camp fire for the night near a deep ravine that led into the Mackenzie. In the Spring the ravine was fed by melting ice that had lodged far up in the gorges of the mountain range.

"Ice up there that has not melted for a thousand years," he mused as he surveyed the great masterpiece of nature.

Up the sides of the mountain he could see the frozen strongholds that had resisted the onslaughts of nature to remain steadfast in their crevices and ravines of the high inaccessable passages along the mountain side.

Spring came with unusual warmth. It was the kind of Spring that occure about once every decade in the Northland. The sun seemed actually hot in spots.

Grissom looked far up the mountain side.

"Ideal place for trapping!" he observed. "Also a good time to scout for gold!"

Huge pieces of ice, eaten away from their anchorages far up in the gorges, were floating downstream toward the Mackenzie.

Grissom stood near the banks of the swollen river watching the ice flow. Lured on by the call of adventure, he stepped out onto a block of ice hoping to ascertain something of the melt that was then in progress. He gazed into the heart of the ice block. His eyes grew large—his face became pale.

"Dick!" gasped old Grissom, "Dick! Dick!"

The huge block of ice, twisted by the swollen stream, started on its course to the Mackenzie. Cariban Grissom gazed for a moment into the heart of the ice. He saw there the frozen form of his one-time pal, the partner he thought had deserted him. Slowly the ice moved onward.

"So you didn't desert me after all!" Grissom exclaimed.

The old trapper was silent for a fragment of time.

"That was a raw morning," he soliloquized, "I remember it now. Coldest Spring snap in twenty years. Poor old Dick, he went up there prospecting. He must have fallen into freezing water—and he has stayed there all these years. Poor old partner—good-bye!"

When Grissom returned he sat by the fire and chuckled as he had never done before. And the Siwash woman sagin was bewildered at the strangeness of her white mate.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By William F. Kirk.

HERE is quite a artikel about Archery, sed Ma to my Dad last nite, maybe you wud like to reed it. It says Archery is gitting to be a grate fad among society peepul, sed Ma.

I suppose that settels it, sed Pa. What does it mean, Archery? I sed.

It means shooting arrows from beaus, Bobbie, sed Pa. You git a good hardwood beau of hickry or ash, sed Pa, & sum hardwood arrows with fethers on them to mak them go strate, sed Pa, & then you go out & shoot at targits or burds or animiles, sed Pa.

Gee, that aint nothing new, I red, I had got sevrll beaus & a heep of arrows, I sed. That is old stuff.

But older fokes are goins in for it, Bobbie, sed Ma.

Older fokes are copy cats, I sed, copying after us kids. Ma, I sed if you & Pa gits sum beaus & arrows, I sed, I will bet you all the munny in my bank, I sed, that I can shoot rings around the two (3) of you with one eye shut, I sed.

You may shoot straiter than yure mother, Bobbie, sed Pa, but in me you wui find a tuff customer, Why sed Pa, wen I was a kid they called me Robin Hood, I was so deadly with a beau & arrow, sed Pa.

Of course, sed Ma, I mite of known it, of course.

I am not stretching the trewth sed Pa. I cud hit a appel three hundred yards away with three ar rows out of four, sed Pa. Yes, sir.

A crab appel or a thorn appel, I suppoas, sed Ma. You wunnerfu treschur, sed Ma.

You think I am lying, I suppoas sed Pa kind of hauty. It is no use freshing, sed Pa, to hav yure wife call you a Fibber, sed Pa.

What is the use of telling Bobble such storys? sed Ma. Three hundred yards is nine hundred feet, sed Ma. You cudent see a appel her old ears.

SHE said she had sent the new ones to the laundry and they hadn't come back.

SHE was so embarrassed that she's going to wash them at home after this.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By Helen Rowland

NOT every woman who wants to know how to get money out of a man, is a gold-digger.

Lots of perfectly good little wives are continually asking me for the secret combination that will open the lock on a married man's pocketbook.

A later way is the method of the confidence woman, who lures her husband to go shopping with her, and makes a secret treaty with the prettiest saleswoman on the floor. When they have finished, he is lucky if he still has his taxi fare home.

• • •

Then there is the way of the bandit-wife, who holds her husband up on Saturday night, takes his pay-envelope away from him, as he enters the front door—and then after doles out his lunch-money and car fare to him.

And there is the way of the embezzler, who gently pads the accounts, and has secret treaties with the grocer and the furrier and the milliner, who inflate the bills and divide the booty with her, so that she may occasionally have a little change for a manicure.

• • •

And there is the method of the diplomat, who sweetly assures her wonderful darling that "as the wife of a Great Big Important Man," she simply MUST have all the latest "imports," and a few sables and diamonds, because she yearns to "be a credit to him." And what will people SAY if she doesn't!

There is the way of the gentle blackmailer, who capitalizes her husband's little weaknesses and careless slips, and trades upon his fails from grace. All her jewels are the wages of sin—HIS sins!

Of all the popular methods of gold-digging-a-husband, the simplest is that of the amateur, who waits until he goes to sleep and then creeps out of bed and goes through his pockets like a thief in the night. But this small-time stuff is almost obsolete in these days of high finance.

To All Who Suffer Stomach Agony, Gas and Indigestion

Boston Druggists Make This Offer

Money Back If One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin Doesn't Do You More Good Than Anything You Ever Used

At last the way has been found to combine Pepsin with other corrective stomach agents so that it will do the most good in the shortest possible time.

Why bother with slow acters when one tablespoonful of this splendid and pleasant liquid remedy will cause gas, bloating, heaviness, heartburn or any upset condition of the stomach to speedily vanish.

And why should any man or woman suffer another hour with indigestion or sour stomach misery when the remedy that acts almost instantly can be easily procured?

But there is more to say about this remarkable remedy—something that will interest thousands of dyspepsia people.

Dare's Mentha Pepsin not only quickly relieves stomach distress, but it also conquers stubborn indigestion, dyspepsia and gastritis, and puts an end to dizziness, nervousness, headache, sleeplessness and despondency which distressing troubles are nearly always caused by chronic stomach disturbance.

Dare's Mentha Pepsin is pleasant to take, has a delightfully refreshing taste and after it has put your stomach in a clean and healthy condition, just notice how much better you look and feel, for besides correcting stomach disorders this supremely good remedy that druggists everywhere guarantee, is a fine tonic that builds you up and makes you work with vim, eat with relish and sleep soundly.

SCRATCHED ITCHING SKIN UNTIL IT BLED

Relieved at once by a simple treatment

Evens City, Pa., April 2:—"Some time ago I had a bad case of eczema and vine poisoning. At times I scratched my skin until the blood ran. Then our family doctor advised me to use Resinol Soap and Ointment. I obtained relief at once and before long new, smooth skin had taken the place of the old sores. If Resinol should cost me twice as much I would never be without it as I do not think there is a soap or ointment on the market their equal, and it seems to me I have tried almost all of them. Resinol Soap is most refreshing and pleasant to use, and Resinol Ointment has a quick healing power. I have recommended these products to many people and expect to continue to do so." (Signed) K. J. Enslen.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

PLASTIC surgery has reached such a hight of perfection that now it's considered old-fashioned to wear the face that nature gave you.

ADAM'S APPLES are being reduced by putting them through a cider press.

ONE fellow's forehead had so many wrinkles in it that his face looked like a detour.

HIS cheek bones were so steep that the razor couldn't make it go high.

HE saved seventy-five dollars and bought himself a new nose.

HE buttons it right over the old one.

HE wanted a detachable beak so that he could take it off in case he got in a fight.

HE'S also buying an extra set of ears for the cold weather.

SIX months ago he had a face that only a mother could love. Today he's got one that everybody worships.

A WORCESTER woman says she's tickled to death with her new chin. She can talk as fast as she wants and there's no vibration.

A ROSLINDALE girl had her lips made smaller so that the fellows couldn't steal such big kisses.

THE doctor she went to didn't know his business. He set mouse traps on her cheeks to catch the moles.

SHE had so many freckles that a national bank bought them and used them for decimal points.

A NORTH SHORE society dame pays a plastic surgeon by the month. She never wears the same face twice.

SHE went to a ball the other evening and apologized for bringing nine hundred feet away & you know it.

Not now, I know, sed Pa, but wen I was a kid I cud see the stem on a appel nine hundred feet away, sed Pa. I had eyes like a hawk or a seguil, sed Pa. The first time I saw you, deer, sed Pa to Ma, you ware riding on a lumber waggin & a mile away & I cud see you were butiful sevun from that distants, sed Pa.

On a lumber waggin, what rubbish! sed Ma.

Ma is funny that way, her old gent used to hawl lumber & drive team for a living & she never likes to say nothing about it, she shud we be shamed of honest Labor? You bet wen I do any work I shall shamed of it, I, in't about it nood & plenty. Kids nowdays dasnt eff many chages to talk about the work they do, well I shud say not

DOCTOR GAVE HER MIXTURE TO STOP COUGHING SPELLS

Coughed So Bad People Stared—Began to Worry Family

HAWKED AND SPIT UP PHLEGM EACH MORNING

"A person with a bad cough is a fool not to see their doctor right away," writes Mrs. D. R. Shadwell. "I coughed in church, in the office where I work and at the movies so bad people would stare at me. Mornings I was a nuisance around the house, coughing up phlegm and mucus. At night I breathed through my mouth and mornings my mouth was dry and tasted awful.

"SAW HER DOCTOR

"One old doctor met me on the street and asked me why I coughed so. I told him the cough remedies did no good and I couldn't take cod liver oil. He laughed and wrote down the name Mendaco and said it was a nice-tasting Flax-seed mixture with Emulsified Cream Tar better than Cod Liver Oil and quicker, too.

WONDERFUL RESULTS

"Only the bigger downtown stores had Mendaco but it's worth going miles to get. My cough loosened up and vanished almost the night I began. Since then friends who were wheezing and coughing as I used to have taken Mendaco and even the kids in the neighborhood like to take it when they get a cough or cold. It builds you up, too."

A cough is a nasty, annoying thing to have and dangerous, too, this time of year. A 60c or $1.20 bottle at home does the work. Well stocked druggists have Mendaco, made by the nationally known Kerr Chemical Co., or send dollar bill with name and address to Kerr Chemical Co., Brentwood, Md., for large bottle postpaid. Ever to your door.

Martha Lee's Homemakers Contest
Question Number 20
What is the difference between evaporated and condensed milk?

Answer
Name
Address
cut on the dotted line

Question twenty marks the third milestone of the Great Martha Lee Homemakers' Contest. Only thirteen more questions to complete the set of thirty-three.

Only thirteen more chances before Nov. 29, when the contest ends.

Now the twentieth question.

What is the difference between evaporated and condensed milk?

Then take a little bit of thinking doesn't it? Can't write it in the space on the coupon in a second, and yet everybody can easily find the answer, if she goes about it the right way.

Just get a can of evaporated milk and one of the condensed, and study up the subject a little. Then make out the coupon and put it safely away with the rest. These coupons are growing into a big pile.

Entries bearing insufficient postage will not be received. No sets of answers will be returned by the Boston Evening American.

It is not necessary for the contestant to purchase the Boston Evening American to enter this contest. Tracings of the contest coupons can be made from files at the Boston Evening American or public libraries.

Contestants may send in as many sets as they desire, but no contestant shall be entitled to more than one prize.

The entry of a set of answers at the close of the contest will be considération that the contestant has acknowledged and accepted these rules as fair to all, and is willing to abide by the decision of the judges, which will be final.

DOCTORS WARN AGAINST PERIL OF DIETING FAD

Chicago, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Instead of ruining their health through trying to reduce by over-dieting, violent exercise and similar measures, the staff of Cook County Hospital, largest in the world, is agreed that women should stop smoking, drinking and over-eating and consult only reputable physicians.

The doctors joined in and emphatic warning after a discussion in which they reported more cases each year of women who become ill by attempts to reduce through extreme means.

Specific reference was made to gland extracts, but excessive dieting and ill-advised exercise also were warned against.

"Unscrupulous physicians are getting rich from the new fad of gland extracts," said Dr. Cyril Burger, associate professor of surgery at Northwestern University and chief surgeon of the staff.

"Practically all of the anti-fat preparations have thyroid extract, for a thyroid deficiency and thyroid extract to get this produces all the symptoms of goiter.

"The patient gets thin, but she becomes extremely nervous and her heart is seriously affected—in other words she exchanges her good health and fat for heart trouble and nervous disorders."

PRIZE TERRIERS TO BE SHOWN

Some of the finest Boston terriers in the land, kings and queens of dogdom, will be benched for competition at the thirty-fifth annual specialty show next Wednesday and Thursday at Mechanics Building under auspices of the Boston Terrier Club of America.

Chief among the local entries are dogs from the Fairlawn Kennels of Wakefield, the Christy Kennels of Lynn, and several excellent contenders owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Doyle, of No. 1736 Beacon street, Brookline.

Boston dogs come entries from Worcester, Springfield, Providence and more than sixty other cities and one, Jersey City. Jersey city comes Champion Hagerty's Viking Jr.'s son and other valuable dogs owned by Mrs. F. S. Wadsworth, Evan Ramsay, Emil Greenbaum and Mrs. L. Harrell.

The Middle West is well represented by Mrs. E. D. Daley of Detroit, Mich., who has numerous fine dogs, including her two international champions, Jake King Tut and Benda Wood, II.

$1,000 CHECK GIVEN FAMILY

A father's alertness to protect his loved ones by taking out a Boston Evening American accidental insurance policy last year, resulted today in his widow and 13 children receiving a $1,000 check.

Mrs. John Strang, of Evelyn street, Mattapan, thought herself destitute when her husband was killed in an automobile near his home on the night of Oct. 11.

Her husband's sole legacy to his grief-stricken family was a Boston Evening American policy he had taken out November 4, 1925, and for which he had paid but one dollar.

"We had no money in the house after my husband was killed," says Mrs. Strang, "and the children were very dark and had it not been for the $1000 check I have just received, I do not know what would have become of us.

"I cannot praise too highly the Boston Evening American insurance policies. I little dreamed tragedy was coming to my home. When it did fortunately we were prepared."

SAYS EARTH WITHOUT SUN WOULD BE FROZEN SOLID

New York, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—If the earth were taken away from the sun for a year, the ocean would not only be frozen, but the atmosphere would be condensed to liquid air, washing the icy rocks of a frozen sea, in the opinion of Professor Henry Norris Russell, professor of astronomy at Princeton University.

There may be thousands of habitable worlds in the universe, he said in a lecture at the American Museum of Natural History, but the only other one in our solar system that might possibly support life is Mars. All the others are too hot or too cold, he explained. He is convinced that the moon could not contain life because it has no air or water.

Animal Expressions

Do They Seem Human to You?

IS HE LAUGHING?

In view of all the talk about evolution on one side and the other, it is interesting to study the expressions on the faces of animals. You have seen an elephant reaching for a peanut, with an air of wisdom worthy of Socrates. What do you think about the pictures of animal expression, reproduced from photographs in this column?

We say that none of the animals except man ever laughs. They screech, whistle, roar, sing, yell, bark, hiss, whinny, bellow, scream, bray, etc., but they DON'T LAUGH.

But wouldn't you say that this chimpanzee is laughing? If not, what IS he doing?

THE CHEETAH. IS HE THINKING?

And the cheetah or hunting leopard, does his face not look as though he were THINKING?

You may say "The look is merely one of anger." But even in anger there is at least the thought "I don't like you."

TWO SOLEMN BIRDS. DO THEY THINK?

And the pictures of the two solemn looking birds, the one on the left a Pondicherry vulture.

And the "shoebill" on the right. This bird reminds you of some politicians, because it has more mouth than brain. Doesn't the vulture look like a miser, annoyed, surprised in counting his gold? Doesn't the shoebill look like an old man that could tell a funny story if he wanted to?

What IS the exact difference between us and the lower animals?

Are they related to us, or we to them? Or were we all created separately? Were they developed, hatched as it were, out of the earth, through a process of evolution, as science tells us?

Who knows, who ever will know?

Kindness to Animals

Examples of the wicked getting it in the neck are always encouraging.

Here are a few worthy of rejoicing over.

Three men in a motorboat saw a deer trying to swim across a lake. They followed, embedded a spoon-hook in the deer, and made it tow their boat for an hour. Captured, they were haled into court and fined fifty dollars.

A man who attempted to bury puppies alive in his backyard was arrested and fined twenty-five dollars.

The owner of a dog who left it tied in the blazing sun for two days without food or water was fined a like sum.

An age that punishes cruelty to animals is on the right track. Kindness to animals and kindness to fellow men are closely related. Demanding the former aids in producing the latter.

MATTERS OF SPIRIT MARK PROGRESS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN Italy a project is under way to recover two galleys which lie two hundred feet below the surface of the clear water of Lake Nemi.

On these galleys it is believed Tiberius worshipped in the days of ancient Rome.

To measure the real advance of the world in the past two thousand years, compare the superstitious Roman Emperor making sacrifices to appease angry, vengeful gods, and the attitude today of enlightened men toward the Supreme Deity.

The real progress in the world is religious progress.

For man's superiority over animals lies not in keener senses, greater cunning, or stronger sinews, but in being a religious animal.

A bee can see ultra-violet rays that are invisible to human eyes.

An ant has a keener sense of smell than has a man.

Substances which the human tongue cannot tell apart are distinguished from each other by earthworms.

The tongue of man cannot distinguish sodium, ammonium, lithium and potassium chlorides. The earthworm can, and he reacts differently to each.

The courage of the great baboons is equal to that of the most reckless of human beings.

The cunning of some animals has outwitted the most clever traps the human mind was able to devise.

It is not in these things that man is superior. In many respects he is inferior to ants and animals.

His essential difference from all animals, and his mark of superiority, are his sensing of the religious.

No animal has to human knowledge, displayed any evidence of religious life, nor has any animal ever done anything that might be interpreted as a preparation for a life beyond death.

But in the whole history of mankind there has never been a tribe or a race without some form of religion.

The tape measure of humanity's real progress is found in its progress in matters of the spirit, its advance in religious ideas.

PROTECT THE OTHER PERSON'S CHILD!

You are a parent, and as such, have been appealed to in the interests of another parent's desire for the well-being of his child.

You know certain things about the company which your friend's boy or girl keeps, and the child's parent wants to know what you know.

To whom are you a friend—to the parent in question or to the one whose character is to be investigated?

If you are a parent you ought to be able to appreciate a parent's interest in the welfare of the child and put it ahead of any trouble it might make if you told the truth about the person in question.

Remember this, that if anyone objects to being investigated as to character it shows a lack of standing or there is something wrong.

The person who is true and honest and honorable has nothing to fear from inquiries into character and standing.

Both parent and child profit by this investigation and the loser is the dishonest person.

Odds and Ends of the Town

STONE AGE

WEARING the striking likeness of a human face, a time-worn stone was discovered in front of the birthplace of PRESIDENT JOHN ADAMS in QUINCY. It is now being exhibited by ISRAEL SMITH, caretaker of the famous patriotic shrine. The relic was found two feet beneath a stone fence that had been removed. The stone is somewhat larger than a man's head. Two eyes, a nose and a mouth may readily be seen. According to MR. SMITH, it is the work of an Indian who used a crude instrument, probably a stone chisel.

BUSY DORCHESTERITE

EDWARD J. McGOVERN, member of the committee on public utilities of the DORCHESTER BOARD OF TRADE, is an ardent worker for the extension of the Dorchester tunnel from ANDREW SQUARE along Columbia Road to MATTAPAN SQUARE. Recently, he pointed out to the METROPOLITAN PLANNING COMMISSION the growing practice of motorists leaving their cars in suburban garages because of the congestion in the city proper. He said that increased rapid transit facilities would encourage this practice and result in increased patronage of the tunnel.

MAN WANTED

With the resignation of GEORGE B. WILLARD as RECEIVER-GENERAL of MASSACHUSETTS, a position he has held since 1916, members of the Commonwealth Service Association will be forced to look around for a new president. FRANK A. GOODWIN, registrar of motor vehicles, is mentioned as his successor, but FRANK'S friends say he doesn't care for the job. Mr. Willard resigned to become treasurer of a Connecticut gas company. He's many friends at the STATE HOUSE wish him success in his new endeavor.

VICTORY CAKE

MRS. HOWARD P. McADOO of SAUGUS, famous as the result of the cakes she has baked for celebrities, sent one of them to GOVERNOR FULLER when she learned of his victory. It was of the three-layer variety. THE GOVERNOR thanked her for the "victory" presentation. It is unofficially said that ALVAN JR. has given his unqualified endorsement of the cake.

SENATOR WALSH

One of the first things that DAVID I. WALSH did when he learned of his victory in the Senatorial battle, was to telephone MRS. MABEL B. LYON of Davis street, QUINCY, to thank her and the people of Quincy for the support they had given him. MRS. LYON, a registered REPUBLICAN, swamped the WALSH campaign in QUINCY.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HE leaves his hat on the piano. And his B. V. D.'s on the bathroom floor. And he never yet has been known to put away his safety razor. Or pick up a Sunday paper.

Outside of that he's a wonderful husband. Doesn't dissipate. Has held the same job in one of the big department stores ever since they were married, ten years ago. And he always gives her his pay envelope Saturday night. A kindly, good-natured, hard-working husband—

"But don't you think that after ten years he might learn to pick up after himself?" grumbles his indignant wife. "Maybe it seems a little thing to you, Elsie, but it's awfully aggravating to a wife to have to keep picking up after a great, big able-bodied man.

"I am a neat woman and I am proud of my house. It humiliates me to have some of my lady friends drop in for a call and see Will's hat on the piano. Last week a caller came and there was a dirty collar and tie right in the middle of the davenport. I could have sunk through the floor.

"I told him if he cared for me he wouldn't make things so hard for me. But I can't make him take anything serious. He laughed as if it was a good joke, about Miss Vox coming in and seeing the man's collar. He said it was 'probably a treat for the old hen.' I suppose you will make a joke of it too, but I don't think you should. You ought to try to make men realize what it means to a woman to keep up a nice home and then have them upset everything."

Aggravating Chore

No, I'm not going to make a joke of it, sister. I, too, have "picked up after a man" and I know exactly how aggravating such a chore can be. And like you, I've staged riots and hunger strikes to break this pernicious practice—all to avail. I'm not staging them any more. I'm wise now. I've discovered several things about men and women and hats on the piano. And I'm going to hand my tip to you.

If you were trying to catch a wild beast, sister, how would you bait the trap? Would you leave all the steel teeth and the dead falls exposed—or would you choose the pet diet of your beast and make your trap as alluring as possible? You'd make your trap attractive, of course. Well, that goes for holding a man as well as for trapping a bear.

No, I'm not saying men are wild animals or that homes are traps. But, take it from me, sister, no bear or bob-cat was ever more suspicious of a cage that a he-man is of a lovely, feminine home. That cage means just about the same thing to the bob-cat that such a home means to a man. It goes against all his rough, wild instincts.

Do I mean to say that men don't like homes? Far from it. I am convinced that men crave homes—REAL homes—quite as much, if not actually more, than women.

When your husband wooed you, it is probable that he wanted a home as much as he wanted you, lady. If he was the average young man he had been living around in boarding houses. All day he had to obey rules and at night he went home to an atmosphere equally rigid and cheerless. The thought of a home where he could "let go and do as he liked" was a veritable dream of paradise to him. That was the bait in the irksome, expensive trap of domesticity.

Blissful Existence

So you were married and he began to leave his B. V. D.'s on the bathroom floor and his hat on the piano. To you that act was merely a piece of gross, inconsiderate, aggravating untidiness. But to him it was the symbol of a new, blissful existence. Only a tired worker who obeys rules eight hours of the day knows how blissful such relaxation and carelessness can seem. How heavenly good it is to do as you please, in defiance of law and order!

Your man married largely because he wanted and needed that sort of life. You did your best to convince him that you understood that craving. And now that you have him you want to throw away the bait and leave the trap bare. Look out, sister! that nice orderly feminine instinct has wrecked many a home.

The women you call "bad" know this secret about men. You think that men go to such women because males are innately wicked. You're wrong. Such women know how to make a man comfortable. They don't care if he leaves his hat on the piano or scatters the Sunday papers over the floor. It wouldn't hurt many a tidy wife to take a tip from their book.

And let me tell you one thing more, old girl—the thing that I pray you may never have to learn by experience. There's something harder to bear than picking up after an untidy man. And that—not having to pick up any more.

Just Why the Wind Blows

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

A READER asks what causes the wind to blow. "This," he says, "may be a silly question, but it has always puzzled me. Is it a power pushing the wind before it, or is it a power drawing the wind after it?"

Not a silly question by any means. It is one of those fundamental questions that open the way to a whole world of knowledge. Anybody who follows it up will soon find himself deep in the science of natural things. Meteorology begins with the study of the causes of the wind.

The chief cause lies in differences of temperature in adjacent parts of the atmosphere. On a still day you can start a small wind by building a bonfire. The fire heats and thus expands the air around it; the expanded air, being lighter bulk for bulk than the cooler air, rises through the latter for the same reason that heated water rises from the bottom of a kettle.

The rising of the warmed air leaves room below for the unheated and consequently heavier air to press in from all sides. This sweeps over the ground as a little breeze, drawing in toward the fire. The rising air above the fire is likewise a breeze blowing vertically.

The inflowing cool air, as it reaches the fire becomes itself warmed and in its turn rises, leaving room for more cool air to press in below. Thus, if the fire is a large, hot one, which continues to burn for a long time, it may create a very noticeable inblowing wind, by a kind of "suction."

Next, owing to irregularities of the soil, or other variable causes affecting the movement of the air over the ground, it will probably happen that some of the inblowing air is more or less diverted from a direct course toward the heated centre, and the result will be that a whirling, or twisting, motion is imparted to the rising air column which thus becomes a miniature tornado.

Now, this small scale illustration gives the clew to the general cause of all winds. That cause is to be found in the heat which the earth derives from the radiation of the sun's rays pass down through the atmosphere without directly heating the air.

But on reaching the surface of the earth, their energy is largely turned into heat, which warms the ground, the rocks and other objects, and this heat is absorbed by the lower air.

Here, then, we have on a large scale the condition of things which we created on a small scale with the bonfire, namely, air that is being heated and expanded at the bottom, and thus induced to rise, leaving room for surrounding air to press in to take its place.

You may think that because the sun's rays reach a whole face of the earth at once there can be no room for such an operation to take place. But for many reasons this objection does not hold.

In the first place, the innumerable irregularities of the earth's surface and the difference in heat absorbing power between water and land, and between varying portions of the surface, as mountains, valleys, deserts, forests, etc., inevitably produce great variations of air temperature.
